RANGER KILLED BY ASSASSIN'S RIFLE AND WIFE WOUNDED

Murderous Attack Made by Unidentified Assailants on Young Couple at Supper in Cabin —Man Shot Through Window and Woman While Telephoning for Aid

ROSSBURN, Man., July 14 (CP).—Lawrence Lees, young Dominion forest ranger, is dead, and his bride of five weeks lies in Clear Lake Hospital tonight as the result of a murderous raid on a forestry station in Riding Mountain Forest Reserve, fourteen miles north of here.

Late last night the ranger was murdered when unidentified assailants fired through the window of the station, the shot piercing his neck.

A few minutes later the slayers entered the cabin as Mrs. Lees was telephoning police officials. They ruthlessly shot her down, the bullet striking the back of her neck.

A great man-hunt was quickly organized by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and tonight an intensive search throughout the reserve is proceeding.

Poachers in the National Park are suspected by police as being responsible for the attack. Ill-feeling recently devloped among some residents of the district, police said, because of Lees' strict enforcement of poaching and timber regulations in the park.

Mr. and Mrs. Lees, seated at the kitchen table in their tiny cabin, were enjoying a light supper before retiring. The room was lighted by a single oil lamp. Without warning a shot was heard and Mr. Lees slumped forward in his chair. The bullet entered his neck and he died almost immediately.

SHOT IN THE DARK

Mrs. Lees ran to his side, but found he was beyond assistance. Then she lifted a rifle from the wall and fired through the window at forms moving in the darkness.

Rushing to the telephone, she called Clear Lake. As she was describing what had happened, two men entered the room and one fired before she could turn and raise the rifle which she still held in one hand. Her screams as the bullet imbedded in her neck and the sound of the shot carried over the telephone to the listener at the other end of the line.

"LOOKED LIKE FOREIGNERS"

When Constable J. Bayfield arrived at the cabin, accompanied by a physician, Mrs. Lees regained consciousness long enough to say weakly: "Two men—looked like foreigners." She was moved to Clear Lake Hospital today.

Police are patroling roads in all directions, and citizens, heavily armed, are on the lookout for the murderers.

This evening airplanes arrived to join the hunt. Forest rangers have been summoned from all posts, and their work is expected to prove valuable in combing the densely-wooded country.

"Big Four" of Antipodes

DELEGATES from New Zealand and Australia to the Imperial Economic Conference, which opens at Ottawa next week, who are destined to play a big part in the trade deliberations in which the Southern Dominions are vitally interested with other component parts of the British Empire. The Southern Pacific representatives arrived in Victoria aboard the R.M.S. Aorangi yesterday morning, and were the official guests of the Provincial Government while here. They are, from left to right, seated: Hon. W. Downie Stewart, Minister of Finance and Customs for New Zealand; Rt. Hon. Stanley M. Bruce, Federal leader without portfolio and leader of the Australian delegation; left to right, standing, Hon. H. S. Gullett, Minister of Trade and Customs for Australia, and Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, Minister of Public Works and leader of the New Zealand delegation. Rt. Hon. S. M. Bruce will take up residence in London, England, as soon as the conference is over, as resident minister in London for Australia.

DELEGATES WELCOMED

Provincial and Civic Officials Greet Visitors From "Down Under"

Extending a genuine Canadian welcome to the members of the Australian and New Zealand delegations to the Imperial Conference at Ottawa, representatives of the Federal Government, the Provincial Government, the City of Victoria, the Canadian Army, Canadian Navy, and many social, industrial and business organizations boarded the Canadian-Australasian liner Aorangi shortly after the arrival yesterday morning at Rithet Piers, inbound from Sydney via Auckland, Fiji and Honolulu. Without any ostentation, the greetings extended left no doubt in the minds of the visitors from the Dominions "down under" that they were among people of their own kin.

Little time was wasted once the customs and immigration officials had facilitated the movement shoreward. Cars were awaiting the convenience of the visitors, and entering these they were taken to Government House, where Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson welcomed them on behalf of the people of British Columbia. Making a brief stay there and after enjoying a short drive about the city, the delegates assembled at the Empress Hotel, where they were the guests of the British Columbia Government at luncheon. Big Damage Done By Fire in Hangar

CLAIM BILL IS SELF-DEFENCE

Dail Eireann Carries Retaliatory Tariff Measure by 66 to 51 Vote

DUBLIN, July 15 (CP).—"Self-defence" was the label applied by Government supporters to the Republican Government's policy of putting new tariffs on imports from Great Britain, as the financial resolution which assents to the Emergency Imposition of Duties Bill was carried by a vote of 66 to 51 in the Dail Eireann tonight.

Speakers for the Opposition, in swift succession, spoke of the "catastrophe" and "national bankruptcy" that would result for the Free State from the economic warfare with Great Britain.

RUSHING CONSIGNMENTS

Great Britain's new 20 per cent ad valorem duties on the principal products of the Free State go into effect tomorrow and vessels were rushing large consignments of live-stock and produce to British ports.

At the same time, the Government of President Eamonn de Valera went right ahead with its retaliatory tariff measure. It does not impose tariffs, but following the British method gives the Government the power to levy such duties as it considers desirable.

QUEBEC PREMIER OPPOSES SEAWAY

QUEBEC, July 14 (CP).—Premier L. A. Taschereau today described the St. Lawrence Waterways agreement between Canada and the United States as a "national crime." It was a "grotesque proposition," he said in a statement reiterating his contention that the Government of Quebec had been ignored in negotiations for the agreement.

"We can be sure of one thing above all others," he declared. "Our Government will be found ready to defend in every way possible our integrity and our territorial and constitutional rights." Mr. Taschereau did not explain the import of these.

Sweeps Favored And Raised Gas Price Protested

Associated Boards of Trade Indicate General Approval of Municipally Controlled Lotteries—Approve Principle of Free Port for South of Island—Convene in Saanich Next Year

NANAIMO, July 14 (CP).—Protesting recent gasoline price increases and favoring municipal sweepstakes, the annual convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island was held here today.

A. H. Peterson, Duncan, was elected president, and Capt. H. B. Babington, Saanich, was chosen vice-president. M. C. Ironside, Nanaimo, was re-elected secretary for his tenth consecutive term, and Saanich was chosen for the 1933 convention.

Numerous delegates severely criticized the recent gasoline price advance when the resolution of protest was under consideration. Debate on the sweepstakes resolution indicated general approval when such lotteries were conducted by the municipalities and authorized by the Provincial Government.

APPROVE FREE PORT

The principle of a free port for the southern end of the Island was approved, while strong opposition was declared to the renewal of the Vancouver Island Power Corporation's rights over Campbell River water power in a resolution petitioning the Government to refuse further extension of the company's rights.

A report on the fisheries commission was adopted. It declared that the present trout fishing season is too long. It endorsed the imposition of a $1 fisherman's licence but believed the receipts should go to the Dominion and not the Provincial Government. The report recommended two rivers be set aside for fly fishing only.

An open season throughout the year on muskrats was urged and the Provincial Government was asked to allow bona-fide occupants of property to trap muskrats on their own property without payment of a licence fee.

FARMERS EXPECTING AN EARLY PAYMENT

REGINA, Sask., July 14.—It is estimated that between $200,000 and $300,000 will be received by Saskatchewan farmers within the immediate future, when cheques are issued by the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool to cover the balance due on the 1928 crop. A definite announcement will be made within the next day or two.

Definite Mandate Given Delegation Bound for Ottawa

Australians, Headed by Rt. Hon. S. M. Bruce, Ready to Make Sacrifices in Effort to Bring About New Era of Prosperity

MEMBERS of Australia's delegation to the Imperial Conference are extremely hopeful that something really tangible and big will result from the deliberations when the representatives of the British Dominions meet together for the good of the common cause at Ottawa.

Individually, the leaders of the Australian party were most optimistic and believed that the conference would be the beginning of the end in so far as depressed world conditions apply, leading to a conference of far wider import, in which the other great nations would have a part.

They were of the opinion that an international conference would be the ultimate outcome of the Ottawa gathering, the co-operation of all nations being essential to the much-desired solution of the financial and economic difficulties now prevailing.

AUSTRALIA'S HOPES

Speaking publicly for the members of the Australian delegation, Right Hon. S. M. Bruce, C.H., P.C., M.C., M.P., in an interview granted newspapermen following the arrival of the Canadian-Australasian motor liner Aorangi at William Head yesterday morning, stated he wished to convey to the people of Canada, through the press, something of Australia's hopes.

The people of Australia were greatly interested in the successful outcome of the conference; and that the Australian delegation was proceeding to Ottawa armed with a definite mandate to bring about closer inter-Empire trade relations. If this is effected, with all members of the family of British Commonwealths assured of deriving some material benefits from the agreements entered into, there was no doubt that success would follow.

MOTORISTS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Fred Bud and Robert Tervo Almost Killed When Car Turns Double Somersault

Fred Bud, of 2582 Vancouver Street, and Robert Tervo, of 1318 Ivy Street, narrowly escaped death yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding turned a double somersault on Blenkinsop Road and landed in the ditch upside down.

Mr. Bud suffered a badly injured arm, some of the car metal having gouged out a portion of the flesh. The Tervo youth escaped with minor cuts and bruises. Mr. Bud was taken to the Jubilee Hospital, but attendants said he would be released today.

The accident occurred when one of the right tires blew out and the rim came off the wheel. The machine lurched to the side of the blow-out, somersaulted twice and landed in the ditch facing in the opposite direction to which it was traveling.

The top of the machine, the hood, engine and body were badly damaged. It is believed the car is a total loss.

BAGLEY HUNTED NEAR SQUAMISH

Said to Have Left Lumber Camp and Headed for Mountains

VANCOUVER, July 14 (CP).—A hunt for a man believed to be William Bagley, escaped convict and bank robber, and a companion, is being conducted by British Columbia Provincial Police in the mountainous district between Squamish and Indian River, north of Vancouver. The news was brought into Seymour Falls today by W. J. Blundell, ranger for the Greater Vancouver water district.

The wanted pair headed for Indian River from Squamish about five days ago, Blundell said. They were at a lumber camp at Squamish about a week ago, and were recognized by an old prospector, who informed the police, Blundell said.

Bagley and four others staged a sensational break from Oakalla jail here early this year. The others were later recaptured. Bagley himself was almost caught, but escaped by shooting down Police Detective David Maxwell, of Burnaby. Maxwell is still convalescing from his wounds.

NOW TALKING COMPROMISE

Ramsay MacDonald Offers to Discuss Differences With de Valera

LONDON (Friday), July 15 (AP). — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, has offered to meet President Eamonn de Valera, of the Irish Free State, in London to discuss differences between the two countries. It was understood Mr. de Valera had accepted the invitation and would come to London today.

The invitation to the Republican President resulted from a conference at No. 10 Downing Street, Thursday night, when the Prime Minister, the Lord Chancellor and the Attorney-General discussed the situation with William Norton, chairman of the Free State Labor party, and British Labor leaders. The latter included George Lansbury and Sir Stafford Cripps.

ACCEPTS INVITATION

Mr. MacDonald authorized Mr. Norton to tell President de Valera, if the latter wished to discuss the situation, the Prime Minister would be happy to meet him in London. The Irish Labor leader immediately communicated with President de Valera, who accepted the invitation.

Norton said after the conference he had explained the "terms of a suggested compromise" with Mr. MacDonald, but he declined to disclose its details to the press. He added he had telephoned the invitation to President de Valera, who would arrive in London at 6 p.m. today.

THOUGHT ACCEPTABLE

It was assumed the compromise was a plan which Mr. Norton said, at Holyhead, Wales, while on the way to London, he has been authorized to bring here and which was acceptable to the Free State. He said, at Holyhead, he thought the plan would be acceptable to the British.

The plan is understood to provide for arbitration of the land annuities dispute by a tribunal of four members—two nominated by Britain and two by the Free State. Deadlock so far has arisen from the Free State's insistence on an international tribunal, while Britain refused to consider any but an Empire body.

WILL PREPARE FOR AIR ROUTE

Two Expeditions Going Into Arctic to Lay Groundwork for Services

NEW YORK, July 14.—Two expeditions are pushing into the North to lay the groundwork for a transatlantic air route to Europe, via Canada and the Arctic.

Pan-American Airways disclosed today the Pan-American Airways East Greenland expedition, headed by H. G. Watkins, British explorer, was scheduled to sail from Copenhagen at once to establish two bases in the vicinity of Angmagsalik, Greenland, just south of the Arctic Circle.

The Michigan-Pan-American Airways Greenland expedition, under the direction of R. L. Belknap, of the University of Michigan, also is on the way to a base 100 miles north of Upernisk and several hundred miles north of the Arctic Circle.

These groups will remain in the Arctic for about a year.

Reporters Lose Bets To Minister

SS. EMPRESS OF BRITAIN, AT SEA, July 14 (By Wireless).—Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, genial Secretary for Dominion Affairs, has the laugh today on newspapermen traveling with the British delegation to the Imperial Conference. Reporters freely laid bets "Jimmy" would appear in boiled shirt at dinner last night, though dress was optional. They lost when he favored a lounge suit.

The one-time railway worker added to his glee at the expense of the fourth estate when he administered a severe drubbing to George Hambleton, European correspondent of the Canadian Press, in a stiff game of deck quoits.

Conflicting Statements Regarding Franco-British Accord Create Concern

Official Explanation From London Denies Britain Not Bound to Negotiate for Individual Debt Settlement—Italy and Belgium Will Adhere to Ideas in Agreement

LONDON, July 14 (CP and AP).—The British Government moved seriously today to quash reports that have gone abroad tending to picture the new Anglo-French accord as a move towards a united European front on war debt revision by the United States.

Two official statements were issued as official quarters appeared seriously perturbed by conflicting statements and misunderstandings in regard to the accord, as well as by the tone of comment in the press.

NOT BOUND TO NEGOTIATE

One of the statements denied the accord bound Great Britain not to negotiate with the United States for an individual debt settlement. The other restated and strengthened the recent denial that United States representatives were consulted before the European powers wrote the Lausanne Treaty, which greatly scaled down the German reparations.

During the day the Italian and Belgian Charge d'Affaires notified the Foreign Office their Governments agreed with the ideas expressed in the Anglo-French pact and intended to adhere to it. It was understood that Germany, invited along with other powers to participate, was studying the agreement.

IS INDIVIDUAL MATTER

The official British statements were considered necessary, as Great Britain maintained the policy European powers must necessarily make individual efforts towards revision of the war debts agreements and with the United States, these having been negotiated individually.

Superficial reports of a united European front towards the United States are most seriously deprecated by Great Britain as tending to greatly endanger the prospects of settlement and leading United States opinion to a wrong conception of the British and European attitudes toward war debt revision.

DEFINES DIFFERENT VIEWS

The effect of the first of Great Britain's statements today was to clearly define the difference of opinion between Great Britain and France over the meaning of the Anglo-French accord.

Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, said in Paris that it meant Great Britain might not negotiate an American debt settlement without first consulting his Government. Great Britain contends that this is not true.

Cabinet Sitting Was First Ever Held on Ocean

S.S. EMPRESS OF BRITAIN, AT SEA, July 14 (Wireless to CP).—Clad in flannel suits, seven British Cabinet Ministers met today for the first (unofficial) Cabinet sitting ever held on the heaving waters of the Atlantic.

Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council and chief lieutenant of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, presided. The business was mainly the question of arrangements for the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa.

HON. J. BRACKEN IS RE-ELECTED

Provincial Treasurer Leads in Other of Two Manitoba Contests

THE PAS, Man., July 14 (CP).—Premier John Bracken was returned tonight as the representative of The Pas in the Manitoba Legislature on the basis of incomplete returns and, with four polls reported in Rupert's Land, Hon. Ewen McPherson, Provincial Treasurer, was leading his two opponents there.

The vote in sixteen out of twenty-six polls in The Pas, on which election of the Premier was conceded, was: Bracken, 1,856; H. F. Maulson (Ind. Cons.), 188; N. S. McDonald (Labor), 1,098.

Only small scattered polls in the Northland Hinterland remain unreported and the results in them cannot overcome Mr. Bracken's lead.

FATE IN DOUBT

Mr. McPherson's fate, however, is still much in doubt. In the four polls out of fifteen reported, the vote was McPherson, 170; Atkinson (Ind.), 49; Beresford (Ind.), 47.

H. C. Beresford, prospector-politician, who conducted an absentee campaign from the Great Bear Lake mining field, was a supporter of the Bracken Government in the last Legislature, but refused to withdraw from the field when the Government decided to seek a seat for Mr. McPherson in Rupert's Land.

PRINCE RUPERT, July 14.—Charles Powell, eighty, last of the followers of Father Duncan, pioneer missionary of the North, is dead, at his home in Metlakatla. He was a lifelong resident of Tsimpsean Peninsula.

Cathedral Damaged By Rioters

LIVERPOOL, England, July 15 (AP).—A crowd of Orangemen, singing hymns, attacked the cathedral here and shattered four stained-glass windows with stones in rioting last night.

The attack on the cathedral followed one of a series of clashes between Orange and Catholic rivals, which blocked traffic on Park Road, one of the main thoroughfares, and neighboring streets. The powers of the police were seriously taxed.

The rioting began Wednesday night and despite urgent appeals by the leaders on both sides was renewed yesterday.

New Zealand Hopes Ottawa Conference Will Guide Empire

Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, Leader of Delegation, Expresses Confidence in Representatives to Solve Problems and Remove Barriers to Trade

"NEW ZEALAND looks with high hopes to the conference that assembles in Ottawa next week. We believe that the problems before the conference are of more vital concern to our people than the problems that have confronted any previous conference," declared Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, P.C., M.C., Minister of Transport and Employment, and former Prime Minister of New Zealand, on his arrival at Victoria yesterday morning on his way to Ottawa with the delegation from the Southern Dominions.

Mr. Coates laid particular emphasis on the need for co-operation between the component parts of the British Empire, stating that the representatives from the various Dominions should realize they have embarked on a great Imperial mission which, if it does not wholly accomplish the ideals that are hoped for, the conference at Ottawa will, at least, lay the groundwork for a great scheme of Imperial co-operation.

"I know from discussions with my Australian colleagues that they, and we, are approaching this historic meeting with the desire of mutual helpfulness and co-operation, and I am sure that this will likewise be the object of the other delegations," the minister declared.

FIRST TRADE MEETING

The New Zealand delegate mentioned the fact that this was not the first conference to be held in Canada, referring to one that was held in 1894 at Ottawa, at which the Colonies were represented; but, he said, this conference is the first to be wholly devoted to trade matters.

"During the past two years, since the last conference adjourned, the burden of the world-wide depression has settled more heavily upon us. This is a conference that is born of adversity. It may be that recovery is not far distant, but we have to admit that, as yet, the signs of improvement are difficult to see. It is our faith that by taking counsel to-

BANDITS FAIL IN DARING ATTEMPT

Driver Robbed of Truck and Goods —Citizen Gives Chase—Thieves Make Their Escape

VANCOUVER, July 14.—Two bandits made a bold but unsuccessful attempt late this afternoon to hijack a truck loaded with several hundred dollars' worth of tobacco. They held up a driver for R. Tagashira & Co., East Cordova Street, at the rear of the Imperial Tobacco Company premises, Beatty Street. As the bandits were escaping with the truck Nick Pappas pursued them in another truck, and they abandoned the vehicle about four blocks away and escaped in the C.P.R. yards.

As the Japanese driver of the Tagashira truck was about to step into it two men suddenly appeared, and one, armed with a gun, ordered the driver to keep quiet, while the other bandit climbed into the driver's seat. He started the truck, and as it moved away the Japanese was pushed aside and the second bandit jumped aboard. Pappas, standing nearby, sensed something was wrong and started after the pair.

TWO BLOWN OUT OF POWER BOAT

Explosion Sends Men Hurtling Through Air and Destroys Craft

VANCOUVER, July 14.—While rain pelted and storm clouds loomed a mystery explosion blew two startled occupants out of the well-known Vancouver pleasure yacht Shelmerdene, which was completely destroyed by the blast and subsequent fire, burned to the water's edge and sank at McNab's Creek, Howe Sound, according to word reaching here today.

One man came to in the water and the other was hurled onto a neighboring boom of logs, both narrowly escaping death. Both were dazed but recovered from the shock within a couple of hours and were uninjured.

The Shelmerdene was owned by John Cowdry, Vancouver, who is building a Summer place at McNab's Creek and camping out in a tent.

His daughter, Miss Edith Cowdry, and three friends left Vancouver in the launch to visit Mr. Cowdry. The party had disembarked, but as there seemed to be prospects of bad weather it was decided to move the launch to a safer anchorage. As soon as the engine was started the blast occurred.

The cause is a mystery, but as the engine was decked in, it is presumed that an accumulation of gas beneath the planks had occurred and was ignited by a spark from the ignition.

The thirty-foot launch was valued at $3,000 and was covered by insurance.

GOVERNORS WILL DISCUSS REPORT

VANCOUVER, July 14 (CP).—A special meting of the board of governors of the University of British Columbia will be held on Friday evening to consider the report of Judge Peter S. Lampman, of Victoria, who in June conducted an inquiry into university affairs.

Judge Lampman's report has been received at the university and copies have been mailed to individual members of the board.

The board will decide on Friday night whether the report will be made public, it is understood

Failure of British Markets Would Mean Ruin for Australia

Hon. H. S. Gullett, Minister of Trade and Customs for Commonwealth, Says Loss Would Shatter Country's Present Standard of Living

"THE truth about the British market is that without it Australian closer settlement would collapse and every industry and business in the Commonwealth would be shattered," was the opinion expressed by Hon. H. S. Gullett, Minister of Trade and Customs for Australia, on his arrival here yesterday aboard the R.M.S. Aorangi, on his way, with other Australian delegates, to the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa.

Mr. Gullett said that if the British market ever failed the Australians, it would mean absolute ruin and the destruction of every vestige of the country's present standard of living. "Although half a dozen foreign countries — France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and the United States, are important, we would at a pinch survive the loss of any one of them," Mr. Gullett stated.

VALUE OF BRITAIN

"The peculiar and vital importance of the British market lies in the support it gives to the great pastoral industry and to the mining industry. Foreign countries are also heavy purchasers of our wool and base metals. Britain is of incalculable value to us because she buys from us great quantities of produce for which there is a very limited demand elsewhere in the world. And this produce comes from our farming districts which support the great majority of our rural population.

"Without the British market, thousands of Australian farms would never have come into being, and but for the maintenance of that market, they would go out of business tomorrow. No foreign country is an important purchaser of our surplus farm produce," the minister said.

AUSTRALIA'S EXPORTS

Mr. Gullett mentioned many of the items which Australia exports to the other parts of the British Empire such as butter, meats, wines, dried and canned fruits and even eggs. In that latter exports, the Commonwealth exported only 190,000 dozen to Britain in 1921. Ten years later the export reached 5,900,000 dozen.

The minister mentioned a few outstanding facts concerning exports. He said: "If we are to survive and develop as a nation we must, for many years, maintain and develop our export trade in farm produce. Britain is our one really great and sure market for that produce; we possess the essentials for enormously increased production, and Britain has the capacity to consume all that we can produce. That is why we are going to Ottawa," Mr. Gullett declared.

PREFERENCE ESSENTIAL

Mr. Gullett said that Australia's place in the British market had been won without tariff preferences. But, he pointed out, the feverish tariff building that has taken place on the Continent since the Great War has closed many European markets to the surplus farm products of neighboring countries, and this has been diverted to Britain and into competition with exports from Australia. Butter, he stated, afforded a striking example of that. "If we are to hold and expand our market in Britain, tariff preference to Empire produce is essential, and happily this is recognized by the British Government. Ottawa promises much to the Australian farmer, and through the farmer to the manufacturer and the whole nation."

"GIVE AND TAKE"

The Minister of Trade and Customs made a very strong reference to the responsibilities that had been placed upon the delegates by their respective governments, and further stated that it must be remembered that the mission to Ottawa is not only to receive, but all must play their part in giving.

In conclusion of his interview, which was over as the vessel was approaching the Outer Wharves at Victoria, Mr. Gullett said: "All these anticipated trading arrangements will be but the means leading on to the real Ottawa goal—a British Empire still richer, an Empire with capacity to employ and prosper all of its people, and an Empire united by trust and affection ever becoming stronger."

Like all the other delegates aboard the big steamer, Mr. Gullett was imbued with the same spirit of understanding and hopefulness that the conference to which they were going would not only be successful from their own point of view, but a success that would mean prosperity to the whole of the people of the British Empire.

ASKS WATER PRICE PROBE

Victoria Ratepayers' Association Suggests the City Should Employ Expert

The Victoria Ratepayers' Association, in a letter to the Mayor and City Council, yesterday, asked that a thorough investigation into the gross price of water supplied by the city to Oak Bay be instituted.

The letter said the association was glad to learn that the city's solicitors took the same view as the association did in regard to the legality of the existing agreement, namely, that that part of the agreement fixing the price of water can be changed by applying to the Supreme Court for a writ.

Having established this fact, the association now suggested that a competent water expert be engaged to carry out the investigation into the price of water that the city receives from outside municipalities.

NEW ZEALAND HOPES OTTAWA CONFERENCE WILL GUIDE EMPIRE

gether we can hasten recovery, and can insure that as prosperity is restored, it will be based on a lasting foundation. We believe that we can initiate proposals that will bring in their wake new hope, based upon the expansion of trade, for the peoples who dwell within the Mother Country and the Dominions, while at the same time we shall extend the hand of reciprocity to all those who desire to trade with us," Mr. Coates stated.

HOME CONDITIONS

Referring to conditions in his own country, Mr. Coates said: "This depression has called for adjustments and great sacrifices, and we are proud of the courage shown by our own people in all parts of the Empire and particularly in the Mother Country. They have been of a nature that we would not willingly have contemplated a year or two ago. We have set out to provide relief for our able-bodied unemployed, in return always for work performed, for all of our people. This has called for high taxation for the special purpose of relieving unemployment, raised by a levy on all wages and other income of persons in employment."

Mr. Coates mentioned the efforts made to combat the period of depression by breaking away from precedent and by Parliament adopting legislation, which generally had the effect of scaling down by one-fifth all fixed charges in the way of rents and interest payable within the country. "These measures have brought relief where it was sorely needed, and they have been willingly accepted by the community; but while this action has been helpful, it is certain that no internal adjustment on a purely local scale can provide a permanent escape from the depression. Its solution cannot be sought with any hope of success by any country acting in isolation," the minister related. It was, he said, for that reason that New Zealand was looking to the conference at Ottawa with hope, as bearing closely upon the problems in his home country.

CLOSER CO-OPERATION

Dealing directly with the purpose of the conference, Mr. Coates remarked: "Within our Commonwealth a full and generous measure of political freedom and equality has been achieved. That has been made clear at the last two Imperial conferences. Our minds must now turn to other matters. We are concerned to secure closer economic co-operation, confident that this will be to our mutual advantage and that it is perfectly consistent with our freedom and equality in political status.

"Not merely are they compatible, but if instead of co-operation we are to drift into isolation with tariff walls and trade barriers rising higher, we will find that, as measured by the real welfare of our people, we shall have moved backward. What we seek is a greater measure of co-operation based upon full consent."

FUTURE SECURITY

Having reached full co-operation in spirit, the conference must proceed along lines of security for the future with the view that the economic recovery, will be the first step in a general recovery to normal or better than normal conditions, Mr. Coates intimated in his interview. "The real question is whether our Empire can, by common effort, reverse the trend and set us moving instead in the direction of the freer interchange of our products.

Looking back over the short period since the Great War and particularly to the ten years between 1919 and 1929, the people of the world, Mr. Coates agreed, were well entitled to express admiration at the quick recovery that was effected. After the devastation and destruction of the four years of war there was very great leeway to make up, material goods to be replaced and production to be restored. "It says much for the recuperative powers of the world that the people moved forward as they did in ten years. The wastage of wealth was made up and it is significant that what we have been faced with is not so much a shortage as an embarrassing surplus of commodities," the former Prime Minister stated.

TRADE WITH CANADA

In concluding his interview, Mr. Coates referred to the trade relationships existing between New Zealand and Canada.

"With the exception, of a very brief period, trading relations between Canada and New Zealand have always been most satisfactory. The highest tradition of our British trading code has been maintained. I would wish, however, that a more even balance may be reached in the future: in saying this it is recognized that balances between nations are by no means essential to the well being of the two countries concerned—in the long run the balance between the British Dominions should work out to the advantage of all. At the same time New Zealand greatly desires to increase her exports of primary products to Canada. The heavy balance in Canada's favor in this case is due not only to primary exports from Canada, but secondary products as well."

MEMBERS OF PARTY

The following is a list of the persons comprising the New Zealand party:

Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, P.C., M.C., leader of the delegation, and Mrs. Coates, Hon. W. Downie Stewart, Minister of Finance and Customs, and Miss M. Downie Stewart; A. D. Park, C.M.G., secretary to the delegation; Dr. G. Craig, comptroller of customs; Mrs. T. I. Craig and Miss A. B. Craig, T. R. Aickin, secretary to Hon. Downie Stewart; Dr. R. M. Campbell, secretary to Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates; Miss J. R. McKenzie, stenographer; W. S. Armitage, personal attendant to Hon. Downie Stewart; D. Jones, New Zealand Meat Producers' Board; W. Goodfellow, New Zealand Dairy Produce Board; H. E. Napier, New Zealand Fruit Board; G. W. Reid, New Zealand Manufacturers' Association, and Mrs. Reid; F. O. Hamilton, Hop Growers and Tobacco Association; A. R. Harris, Dairy Board; R. W. Dalton, British Trade Commissioner in Australia; L. A. Palsh, British Trade Commissioner in New Zealand, and Mrs. Palsh; and G. C. Allan, music publisher of Melbourne, Australia.

USE ARMORED CARS WHEN IRISH FIGHT

No More Piles

How to End Terrible Agony Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

HEM-ROID tablets have an almost unbelievable record of success. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores and druggists everywhere invite every sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case? (Advt.)

CONVICTION IS QUASHED

Decision of Local Magistrate on Liquor Smuggling Charge Is Upset

NEW WESTMINSTER, July 24.—In a twelve-page judgment handed down by Mr. Justice A. I. Fisher in Supreme Court the conviction of John Lester Hardy and Albert John Harris, both of Seattle, on a liquor charge in Victoria was quashed. The application to quash the conviction was made by L. H. Jackson, Vancouver, by way of a writ of certiorari. W. M. Gilchrist, New Westminster, on behalf of the Crown, opposed the application.

Hardy and Harris were convicted by Magistrate George Jay in Victoria and sentenced to three months each in Oakalla Prison and each fined $500 on a charge of having 375 gallons of alcohol in their possession unlawfully imported into Canada.

The alcohol was on board the Advance when it was seized in Trincomali Channel, between Saltspring and Galiano Islands April 8 last.

BOUND FOR ALASKA

Mr. Jackson maintained that the boat was bound from Seattle to Alaska and that it was traveling along the direct route for small vessels from Seattle to Alaskan ports.

Mr. Justice Fisher in his judgment said: "Even on the assumption that the waters in question are Canadian territorial waters, they are so placed that passage over them is necessary or at least convenient and generally used for navigation of the open seas, and should be deemed international waters in that sense and for the purpose of the Customs Act. I am satisfied that section eight of the Excise Act when read in conjunction with section one of the Customs Act and other sections clearly recognises the principle of the freedom of even territorial waters for commercial passage by foreign ships, and if any offence has been committed by the accused, the circumstances are not such that he may be tried for the offence charged before the convicting magistrate."

MINE OPERATOR VISITING HERE

R. T. Birks, of Toronto, Is on Holiday Trip to Coast, Accompanied by His Wife

R. T. Birks, of Toronto, is in the city on a short holiday, accompanied by Mrs. Birks. He is identified with the Harvey Gold Mining Company, in Northern Ontario, which is now the seventh largest producer of gold in that province.

The mine is a low-grade one, producing $1,250,000 a year. The value of the ore averages about $4.40 a ton, while there is a necessary expenditure of $2.47 a ton required in the operation.

Mr. Birks points out that in the development of the property, there was expended $5,000,000 before the plant was put on a paying basis. There is an abundance of ore in sight, and the prospects for the property are of the best.

Mr. and Mrs. Birks are guests at the Empress Hotel.

That Body of Yours

DISAGREEABLE ODOR FROM PERSPIRING FEET

Your physician will tell you that he is frequently asked for a remedy for perspiring feet, particularly that type with a disagreeable odor. He will tell you that some of his patients who are very cleanly in their habits, are troubled with this condition.

Fortunately the old army treatment is all that is necessary in the majority of cases. This consists of dusting the ordinary boracic acid or bismuth subnitrate on the feet, in the socks, and also in the shoes.

Just what causes the condition is unknown. Some individuals state that by cutting down on certain foods they have lessened the severity of the condition to some extent. Food doesn't seem to affect the majority of cases, however.

That it is due to "nervousness" in some cases seems very probable.

One army surgeon recommends that the patient with all his footgear be sent to hospital. Every pair of his socks is soaked for an hour in bichloride solution, 1 to 2,000, thoroughly rinsed in hot water, and carefully washed. His shoes are painted on the inside, with a solution of one ounce of salicylic acid and four ounces of alcohol. The feet themselves are washed, dried, and painted with this solution well in between the toes. The entire skin surface becomes white from the decomposition of the salicylic acid, after the alcohol's evaporation. Clean socks are then put on and the next day the painting is repeated. If feet and socks are thereafter kept clean there is usually no further trouble.

Dr. Althoff's treatment, which I have spoken of before, is the use of formaldehyde.

"The feet should be first thoroughly washed with warm water, rinsed and dried. Then the soles, and the skin between toes are painted with equal parts of thirty-five per cent formaldehyde (commercial) and distilled water. The solution should dry before the foot is covered. This treatment should be repeated three days in succession. The effect is prompt and lasts for four to six weeks when the application should be repeated." The sweating and odor are often permanently cured.

The above two methods have been found successful in severe cases. For the majority of cases dusting in talcum powder, boracic acid, bismuth subnitrate or ordinary salicylate into the socks, is effective.

"A lot of girls will be crazy when I get married."

"Why? How many are you going to marry."

PREMATURE END OF USEFUL LIFE

It is impossible to speak of the Brackman & Ker Milling Company without associating therewith the name of Mr. Frank Burgess Gibbs. The milling company is one of the few old industries left of the many important business organizations which in the early history of British Columbia made the city of Victoria the business centre of this province. Like so many of the pioneer men and women, the pioneer businesses and industries no longer have "a local habitation and a name."

Mr. Gibbs spent practically all his business life in the service of the old company, rising from the lowly position of clerk to that of general manager. That is something which could not have been accomplished without exceptional business qualifications, supplemented by diligence, integrity, energy and enthusiasm.

Mr. Gibbs' heart and soul were in the business entrusted to his direction and keeping. He had no thought of personal ambition. All his thoughts were of the business and how to promote the interests of its proprietors and shareholders. No doubt that is why—at least to a considerable degree—the milling company from a purely provincial concern gradually developed into an interprovincial company, with branch houses and mills east of the mountains.

But Mr. Gibbs, although his thoughts were centred on business, although public life seemed to have no attractions for him, and although by reason of wide reading and study he was eminently qualified for public service, was no recluse. He was widely known personally, was of an artistic disposition, loving music and studying literature, enjoyed society, and was liberal in his support of all deserving persons anad institutions. Thousands of his friends in British Columbia and elsewhere will be grieved to learn of Mr. Gibbs' death at a comparatively early age, and will join us in expressing sympathy with his wife and family.

IN A DILEMMA

The British constitution is said to be a thing of practice and precedent. Under the constitution there have been instances of the head of the state dissolving governments and there has been at least one instance of Parliament being instrumental in cutting off the head of a king. In modern practice the latter somewhat drastic measure is hardly likely to be adopted. In the Overseas Dominions governors have been known to dismiss governments. In fact, there is one recent instance of resort to this somewhat rare prerogative. Governments have been dismissed from office in Canada by Lieutenant-Governors, but such incidents in the history of our political institutions are rare, and generally involve more serious consequences to the governors than to the governments. Lieutenant-Governors have been known to lose their official heads when their actions have been condemned by the voice of the people.

Owing to the peculiar political situation in Ireland, which has been widely discussed in two Parliaments and in the press, there seems to be a remote possibility that the Governor-General of the Free State may be dismissed by the government of that state. The President of the Free State appears to have a rabid dislike to the King of Great Britain (chiefly because he represents the people of England), and little love for the Governor-General because he represents the King. Therefore there appears to be no doubt that de Valera would kick the Governor-General out of Ireland but for the fact that he is doubtful about the consequences of such a rare coup.

There are two aspects to the critical and sensational situation in Ireland which keep de Valera in a state of suspense. The first aspect is that if the Governor-General were dismissed, that would be a declaration of Free State independence and a challenge to the British Government. The President of the Free State has declared that if he were sure about the manner in which the British Government would view such drastic action he would have no hesitation whatever in taking it. The second aspect is that if the Governor-General were dismissed the Government itself would be reduced to a state of impotence and the Dail to a position of incompetence. For the Government of Ireland, as constituted, would be destitute of all power and authority if there were no Governor-General to append his signature to its decrees and its acts.

Of course, it is not likely that such technical objections would influence the course of the Free State President. As the song says "Ireland would still be Ireland," and as de Valera probably thinks, de Valera would be either its king or its dictator. The situation therefore is that the President hesitates about kicking the Governor-General out and thus expressing his contempt for the King, but that de Valera is trying, by heaping insults indirectly upon the head of the King by heaping insults directly upon the head of His Majesty's representative to force the Governor-General to resign.

Then we suppose there would be an appeal to the world on behalf of a wronged and oppressed nation, possibly for the creation of an international tribunal to define and establish the status of a weak nation threatened by a powerful and conscienceless nation. But the United States politicians appear to have lost all interest in the cause of oppressed Ireland. There is a presidential election campaign on in the republic, and thus far the Irish question has not been made an issue in the campaign; thus far the tail of the Lion remains unwrung. Ultimately, it is safe to predict, the latest phase of the old Irish issue will be settled by the Irish people themselves, for the conditions in Ireland are so complicated that the Government which thinks it could get along nicely without any head save that of de Valera will be compelled to dissolve the Dail and hold a general election. After the present spasm of passion has abated, the state to which Ireland has been reduced by the frenzy of its President will be palpable, and reason will displace emotion.

BYTOWN

The near approach of the Conference at Ottawa has had the effect of creating a new interest in Canada's capital city, which within living memory was but a backwoods lumber village. It is now, by general acclaim, hailed as the temporary capital of the whole Empire. To celebrate a great occasion Ottawa has assumed, for a while, among British capitals.

Those who are interested in the early history of the noble river upon which Ottawa stands are aware that it was on June 4, 1613, that Champlain, ascending the stream, looked first upon the Gatineau, a large northern tributary entering the main river opposite the "beautiful twin curtain-like falls" of the stream known later as the Rideau, and also upon the magnificent Chaudiere Falls of the parent water, which were commonly known as the Big Kettle.

One hundred years ago Colonel John By was appointed by the Imperial authorities to build a canal to connect the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Rivers. The work was undertaken chiefly for military reasons and especially in view of the fact that the Americans were in a position to dominate the St. Lawrence between Kingston and Montreal. It was in 1826, to be exact, that the founder of the capital of the future Dominion began his great engineering work of constructing through a forest wilderness one hundred and twenty-six miles of canal. The task was completed in five years. The canal itself, the village of Bytown, which he founded, and a reputation for rigid discipline and unbending integrity form good Colonel By's monument in Canada.

Bytown's growth was steady, though not rapid. In 1834 the population was 2,400. Twenty years later it reached 10,000, and the legislature passed an act incorporating it as the city of Ottawa. In 1858 Queen Victoria announced her decision that the perambulating system of holding parliaments now at Quebec, now at Kingston or Toronto or Montreal, should cease, and that Ottawa should be the permanent capital of the country. Accordingly, in December, 1859, the first sod was turned for the erection of the Parliament Buildings, and on the first of the following August the Prince of Wales, afterwards Edward VII, laid the cornerstone amid much enthusiasm.

During the next few weeks Ottawa will get a great amount of advertising. Visitors will learn that it is not only the political capital but also a considerable industrial centre. It will be news to some of them that it has over 200 manufacturing establishments, that within a radius of forty-eight miles there is sufficient water power to develop over three million electric horsepower, that a new development on the Gatineau involves three hydro-electric plants half as large again as the "much talked-of Mussels Shoals plant in Alabama." It is a far cry to the early days of Bytown. Ottawa is now in a position to invite and welcome the delegates to an Imperial Conference, undoubtedly the most important that has yet been convened.

Profound economic authorities claim that the depression is due to the low price of commodities, that money is too scarce and dear, and commodities too plentiful and cheap. And yet when the price of one commodity is raised, consider what a fuss is made about it. Lest we should be misunderstood, possibly it might be as well to point out that the price of this one commodity appears to have been arbitrarily raised. We fear the depression cannot be relieved by arbitrary action either, such as printing more money and making it plentiful and cheap.

There has been possibly too much talk of more international conferences and too many trite sayings about what must be done at the Ottawa Conference. There used to be an old saying about doing one thing at a time and doing that thing well. That should be the motto of the delegates to the Ottawa Conference.

Those impulsive Frenchmen seem to have let something out of the bag which will give the politicians of the United States something to talk about and the Hearst Press something to comment upon during the election campaign.

He is the happiest, be he king or peasant, who finds peace in his home.—Goethe.

MARKETING STRAWBERRIES

Sir,—If you can allow the space in your paper for a little, or all, of the criticism regarding the packing of strawberries into sardine tins, you will be doing the public a real good turn; also help materialy in increasing sales of strawberries during their season.

I would like to state my experience concerning same. Seven years ago I arrived in Victoria. During my first Summer I was out picking strawberries. I can assure you that all the statements in Mr. Livesay's article of July 8 on strawberries and their troubles are true.

The following year I was growing strawberries myself. I attended my first Fruit Growers' Association meeting, and stated to one of the old growers that the boxes for strawberries were too small. He laughed at me and stated, "Why, we have used them for years."

Why should we be tied down to rules that were passed in the year dot? I don't care how experienced a picker is, it is impossible to pack berries into the present boxes under the old pack without bruising the fruit; also to give a good jumble pack (which is the best pack) without bruising or pressing the fruit when a grower puts on the lid of the box, or the middle deck.

Strawberries are so delicate to handle that the packing should be made as foolproof as possible. Personally, I have felt disgusted when I have gazed upon strawberries on sale in Victoria. They may have been my own, for what I know, which were good strawberries when leaving the farm. According to Mr. Livesay's article he fears the vested interests may delay any attempt to alter the present system. I disagree with him. My version is, we are tied up with a few old cranks. What we want is a man to run the fruit business with a little common sense, to order new boxes to be made on the lines to suit the strawberries, not for show purposes; also for the growers to back him up and put them on the market next year.

I have sold strawberries at my door. We only handle the stem. We pick the fruit and drop it into the little box. The fruit is not handled any more with the fingers. We have had people knock at our door for strawberries. Their statement is, "I wish we could get strawberries like these in town." Yet my fruit is picked the same for town as it is for out here.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 16.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

REFINERIES GIVE VIEWS

Oil Companies Explain Reason for Increase in the Wholesale Price of Fuel

The views of the various oil refining companies in connection with the recent increase in the wholesale price of gasoline were expressed in a statement made public yesterday.

"When considering a comparison between the price of gasoline in British Columbia with that in the United States, many factors must be taken into consideration before much direct comparison is made," says the statement issued by the Imperial, Shell, Union and Home Oil Companies, which reads:

"The oil companies in British Columbia are marketing to a population of between 600,000 and 700,000—less than there are in some of the cities in the South, and we are marketing and distributing to this small population scattered over an area that is larger than all of California, Washington and Oregon combined," continues the statement.

LOW VOLUME

"Due to the fact that but a low volume of gasoline is necessary to complete the requirements of the British Columbia public, it is not possible to build large refineries here. The two refineries in British Columbia have an extremely small capacity combined, in comparison with any of the large refineries to the south of us, and it is a well recognized fact that a decrease in production capacity increases cost, and a small refinery cannot possibly operate at as low a cost as a large refinery.

"Most of the refineries in the South have large pipe lines pumping the crude oil directly from the fields where the oil wells are, directly into the refinery, or they take huge quantities in tankers for a short distance, whereas British Columbia refineries are over 1,000 miles away from the base of supply of crude, and have to pay high transportation costs.

TRANSPORTATION COST

"Further, this transportation cost must be paid on all the raw product, more than 50 per cent of which is in the form of fuel and is sold at a price considerably below the cost of the raw product, namely, crude oil, laid down in the refinery.

"All refinery tanks, equipment, trucks and miscellaneous supplies required in the operation of an oil company, cost considerably more than the same articles in the South, and a great deal of this cost is in the neighborhood of 35 per cent higher.

CRUDE ADVANCES

"On June 26, 1932, the price of 30 degrees gravity crude, which is the crude brought to British Columbia for refining, increased in price in the oil fields in California 28 cents per barrel. With the additional costs, such as exchange and excise tax, this makes the increase approximately 32 cents per barrel, varying, of course, with the rate of exchange. There are thirty-five gallons in a barrel, and the yield from this crude is between 25 per cent and 30 per cent in gasoline, and assuming practically the top figure, the amount of gasoline produced from each barrel of crude would be ten gallons. This divided into a cost of 32 cents increase per barrel, equals 3.2 cents per gallon increase in the cost of gasoline to the refiner, whereas the increase recently inaugurated in British Columbia was but 2 cents per gallon.

"It can be well pointed out that, due to chaotic conditions in the oil industry to the south of us, many of the larger major companies operated at a deficit in 1931. It has been quoted frequently that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey would have shown a deficit in 1931 had it not been for the dividend return from the Imperial Oil Company. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is recognized as the leading and outstanding oil company in North America, well operated and managed from every angle, and if conditions are such that a company of this calibre and character would have a deficit, surely it shows that chaotic conditions exist in the oil industry below the line.

HUGE LOSSES

"According to Standard Statistics' weekly resume, or Standard Investors' Guide, dated May 27, 1932, on page 2,634, the report discloses that the net loss of the Shell Union Oil Corporation operating in the United States, was $27,008,310 in 1931, and $5,095,574 in 1930. The net loss for the first quarter of 1932 was $2,742,301. These are examples of general conditions below the line.

"It would seem unthinkable for the best interests of Canada and the companies that are supporting her progress, that anyone could desire to bring the oil industry to a comparable condition.

NO EXPLOITATION

"In reference to the recent price increase in British Columbia, it should be pointed out that at the time of the raise in crude prices, gasoline prices were raised 2½ cents per United States gallon in California, which is equivalent to 3 cents per imperial gallon. An increase of 1 cent per gallon was made in the price of gasoline in Ontario and the Prairie provinces a short time ago during the time of the Dominion investigation of the price of gasoline. Also Mr. Ross, vice-president of the Imperial Oil Company, made a sworn statement that their net profit per gallon of gasoline in Canada, in 1930, was 1.01 cents per gallon. This is proof enough that the oil companies are not exploiting the public.

The price to the public in May, 1929, was 27 cents plus a 3 cents road tax. In April, 1930, it was 27 cents plus a 5 cents road tax; November, 1930, it was 25 cents plus a 5 cents road tax; March 14, 1931, it was reduced to 23 cents plus a road tax of 5 cents; April, 1932, the price was 23 cents, plus a road tax of 7 cents, and July 7, 1932, the price increased to 25 cents plus 7 cents road tax.

"The price to the public, less road tax, has been:

	High	Low
1922	34	29
1923	33	25
1924	29	25
1925	25	23
1926	27	25
1927	26	25
1928	26	25
1929	27	24
1930	27	25
1931	25	23
1932	25	23

"Therefore it can readily be seen that the present price of gasoline is practically at the lowest point in the last ten years.

EMPLOYMENT FACTOR

"It should be borne in mind that any endeavor to force the oil industry down to a comparable basis with that in the South, will result in considerably increased unemployment and a reduction in tax revenue to the province.

"A comparison of the net wholesale price of gasoline in Vancouver with the oil companies here at the present time, with the possible price for imported gasoline, would disclose the following:

"Allowing 1 cent per gallon for transportation of gasoline from Seattle to Vancouver, which is a low figure, the least possible price that gasoline could be laid down alongside of the docks in Vancouver would be 15.78 cents per gallon, using a 15 per cent exchange rate. This can be easily verified through the customs department.

COMPETITIVE COSTS

"Once the gasoline is here, and its quality can reasonably be questioned, it would be necessary to rent or purchase property to build tankage, buildings, loading facilities and there would have to be taken into account interest on this investment and depreciation, and the handling of the products through the plant and the resultant evaporation loss which would amount to at least 1 cent per gallon.

"Taking the gasoline from such a plant and delivering it around the city would cost an additional 1 cent per gallon.

"Advertising would cost ¼-cent per gallon.

"A reputable company merchandizing in a competitive field would incur administration and overhead charges, including rentals, office expenses, sales expense, etc., of at least 2½ cents per gallon, which is a very low figure.

"Painting of stations and maintenance of same would amount to, at the very lowest, one-fifth of a cent per gallon.

"The total for these charges would be 4.95 cents per gallon, which, added to the 15.78 cents, cost would bring the total approximate cost to 20.73 cents per gallon before any profit was made. This is comparable with a net realization price to the oil companies today in Vancouver, of 21 cents per gallon from the service stations."

YODELS PHONE CALLS

Merriest of mayors in Europe is M. d'Arhaupe, of Tardets, a village set high in the Pyrenees, who yodels his telephone calls. And he has reason to yodel when he is merry, for it was a yodel that saved his life when he was a bomber in his country's air force during the Great War, he explains. One day he was flying over the German lines with a cargo of bombs. Just as he dropped the bombs his airplane was hit and caught fire. The engine kept going, but the pilot lost his head. The machine had plunged hundreds of feet, in a mass of flames when the bomber began to yodel. He yodeled as he had never yodeled before, until he thought his lungs would burst. The pilot's nerve was restored and he landed the machine safely in the rear of the French lines.

An American passing through an English village stopped to talk to a farmer.

"Do you get much rain here?" he asked.

The farmer shook his head.

"A little, but not much," he said "My neighbor over there gets more than me."

The American seemed puzzled.

"Well, I sure don't see that, sir," he remarked. "Why, your neighbor is only about a hundred yards away."

"Yes," said the farmer, but he has more land than I have."

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

THE WINNING REVOKE

An intentional revoke at the bridge table is an unpardonable breach of the ethics of the game. Nor may a player revoke a second time to conceal a previous revoke. However, occasionally a player fails to follow suit unconsciously, even though he holds several cards of the suit led. Some working of the inner mind prevents him from realizing what he is doing.

An amusing incident, illustrating that point, occurred recently in a rubber bridge game in Cleveland, and the story is told by Mr. Carl T. Robertson, associate editor of The Plain Dealer, who witnessed the game.

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	3♡	2♠	3♡
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

North and South, as can be seen, must lose three clubs, one diamond and one heart, and thus were apparently doomed to a defeat of two tricks. However, the outcome was much different.

The king of clubs was led, and when it held the trick West followed with the club queen, which South, studying the method of playing his hand, ruffed. A small spade was then led and won in the dummy, and the singleton heart led, upon which East played the ace. Unwilling to make the king of diamonds good, East decided that he would again force the declarer, and led his last club. South again trumped, then drew the remaining adverse trumps, led a small card to the diamond king, upon which West refused to play the ace, wishing to give the declarer a guess, but the king went up anyway and held the trick.

The knave of clubs was now played from dummy, and South followed suit. He then entered his hand with a trump and led another club. Now East and West were conceded a trick in diamonds, and the score was jotted down.

This formality completed, Mr. Robertson remarked to the declarer:

"That was a remarkably played hand, 'Mr. Blank.'"

"I thought myself I played it very well," was the complacent response, and probably to this day neither East, West nor South know just exactly the manner in which the contract was made.

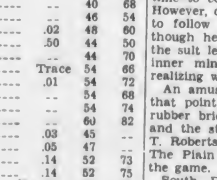

TODAY'S POINTER

Few intentional revokes are made at the contract table. A player who would intentionally fail to follow suit when holding a card of the suit led should be ostracized, as the practice is a violation of ethics, and a high standard of ethics is an absolute essential in the greatest of all social recreations.

TOMORROW'S HAND

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

The Rhyming Optimist

GOING HOME

I never see a little house
Clasped closely to the earth,
And haloed with a mother's smiles,
And gay with children's mirth,
But that I think how blest is he
Who, when night's shadows come,
Can turn towards such a happy place
And say: "I'm going home!"

In lofty halls and spacious rooms
Lives sometimes grow apart;
But in the little home love flowers
Most freely in the heart.

I never see a little house
All aureoled with love,
But what I think how blest are they
Who, though far off they rove,
Can turn about some golden day,
Cross plains, hills, ocean's foam,
And, hasting to that peaceful spot,
Can say: "I'm going home!"

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of July 15, 1882)

Princess Attends Church—It was noted in London that Princess Louise attended Rev. Stopford Brooke's church in Bloomsbury for five consecutive Sundays. Mr Brooke holds peculiar views. He has erased the ten commandments from the position they usually occupy in Church of England churches, and because of this has seceded from that body.

Army News—Rumor is rife here that the famed red coat of the British army will be dispensed with and a plainer uniform adopted in its place. Whether there is any ground for this rumor we do not know, but think it more than likely it is true.

A Scientific Wonder—A new motor has been invented by a German, and authorities who have seen the engine in action claim that it will totally revolutionize engineering. It is run by a bisulphide of carbon and operates at a much lower cost than the old type of steam engine.

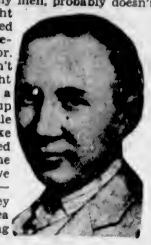

White Workmen—It is a shame the way the Government organ is protecting the Chinese who are trying to steal the livelihood of the white residents, and doubly so when one considers the fact that the organ is now soliciting votes from those citizens so wrongly slandered.

Sinclair Gets View Of Chaplin's Stock Of Private 'Movies'

Finds Comedian's "Grand Duke Air" a Sham to Hide Real Self—Shows Delight in Success as Amateur Photographer

By GORDON SINCLAIR

SS. TERUKUNI MARU, China Sea.—Charlie Chaplin, prince of the world's funny men, probably doesn't sound right as a sissified grand-duke-in-the-parlor. He doesn't look right balancing a bun and cup of tea while he raves like a long-haired poet over the interpretative weavings—whatever they are—of pea green flying fishes.

GORDON SINCLAIR

Because Chaplin was doing these things the first time I saw him on this ship I put him down as a deep-sea bore and decided to avoid him like any other bore. As a result I was invited to feed with him and see his private stock of self-made movies. You can take it from an expert on private stocks of movies that this one is a hair-raising doozer, and Chaplin is the regular guy you thought he was.

Disappointed in the big cityness of Singapore and fed up with port doctors, packing and unpacking, official questionnaires, British cooking and crushing heat, I determined to tuck away my spare shirt and jump for the China war zone. The best ship choice seemed to be the Nippon Yushen Kaisha, so I went around there and made a noise like a cash customer with the itch to move. "Your certificate of health," an English clerk droned. I gave him that, complete with the great seal. "Your passport." I gave him that, with photographs which brand me as Able the Ape. The clerk looked wondrous wise like a stage Sherlock and said, "Sorry, you really didn't expect us to book you; did you now?"

"Certainly I did. What did you think I came for, a haircut?" "But journalist. We can't carry journalists this voyage."

"What's the matter with journalists? Why can't you carry me?" "Mr. Chaplin," he said, "has demanded privacy. There are to be no people asking questions."

"Who's Mr. Chaplin and why should anybody ask him questions?" "Charlie Chaplin," the clerk said as if pronouncing the title of a deity. "He's going on the Terukuni. He's been sick."

"Oh, Charlie Chaplin. Well if he's hired the ship I'll go up on the German line." I went away on a search for wickedness and forgot about Chaplin. When I got back to what they call a hotel the Jap manager had a messenger waiting for me with important looking green tickets and a letter of apology. I figured the guardian angels had stood me another ice cream cone and kept up the hunt for equatorial wickedness.

Sailing day was one of those hot, stuffy dawns which drain the pep like milk from a cocoanut, but the ship had a swimming pool so I stayed in so long I expected somebody down to throw me a fish. After lunch the pool filled up and it was noised around that Chaplin was coming for a dip.

A WEAK VOICE

He arrived looking pale and gaunt. His wavy hair was white and his wrinkles could have been sold wholesale. The instant he plunged in, cameras clicked and souvenir hunters swooped down with pens and menus. "Ah," Chaplin crooned, "isn't this divine? That deep violet-blue. The swish of the limitless sea. Divine; simply gorgeous." He only needed to spill half a dozen words for all of us to know why he sticks to silent pictures. His voice is about as robust and vigorous as that of an adolescent white mouse.

He might as well have been saying, "Oh goody, goody, girls, let's play house," but he didn't. He said, "Ah, now one sees the living, pulsing glory of the sea, doesn't one?" I muttered bologney and prepared to vanish. That idea died when my ring fell off and we all dived and spluttered around trying to find it. Finally Syd Chaplin, who's doing the lady's malding on this trip, dragged up the family jewels. He's really an able swimmer. Charlie and I were dangling our pipe-stem legs in the water.

"You writing a book on this trip?" I asked. "Yes, my literary efforts absorb most of my leisure," he answered. "But one always suffers qualms when knowing one's writings will be scanned by the vast multitude, doesn't one?" "I suppose so," I said, but I was really "horsefeathers."

That night the gang swarmed Mr. Chaplin, but to me he was just a ham actor trying to make a noise like a duke or something. When he came my way I ducked. I ducked for two more nights. Be yourself is my motto.

On the third night Chaplin was collared by a blonde, who somehow reminded me of horses. Not racehorses either. They gave each other sea-going lectures on astronomy. Loud, meaningless lectures. I prowled the decks alone.

After a bit the blonde did a disappearing act and Charlie caught up with me. "You're a writing man, eh?" he asked. "That's me—but no qualms." He uncorked that winsome Chaplin grin. "That's the shell I go into," he explained.

"What is all that rot about, pulsing glory of the set?" "Certainly. All these strangers expect me to wiggle my feet and pull rabbits out of hats or something. I'm just a tourist. If I could tell you of the bores and pests and louts who fondle me and paw and pester—well, you'd write it."

"Certainly I would. I'm not a tourist. I'm working." "Well, come on and see my pictures. First picture I ever took in my life. Moving pictures. I've never seen them myself. They'll probably be all blanks or something, but come on down."

"HOW DO I LOOK?"

With Syd and the blonde we went down to the dining-room. The crew stood ready to tear the ship apart if Chaplin so much as suggested it. After a bit they started unrolling pictures. Bali, the land of nuts and nudes. Java, place of banyans and batiks. New Guinea, where they only wear a rose. Beautiful pictures. Chaplin was in ecstacies one second, the depth of despair the next. "My face, Syd, my face—do I look like that?" "Who do you think it is, King George?"

"But, Syd, you took that. Was I eating a nut or something. Syd, these must never, never be shown."

Then after a while, "Boy, ain't that something. Look at that mottled sunshine effect. Say those chaps back in Hollywood will have to see these. Wait till I tell them I took these."

He kept jumping to the heights of glory and falling to the depths of gloom. "There's that horrible fellow who showed us all the sights; there I am with that Gloomy Gus grin again. Syd, do you inspire these horrible faces in me. Merciful heavens, Syd, my face is my fortune."

"Feet," Syd contradicted. "Feet, my boy." Chaplin in that darkened room was the old enthusiast. The boy on Christmas morning; the fiancee after that first promising kiss. His pictures! Professional photographers can go hang. The fact that he was one of the most photographed men living or dead didn't seem to enter into things. He was seeing himself as he really was; not with idiotic feet and a floppy cane. Not with a cracked derby and a hairline moustache, but as a shy, embarrassed fellow surrounded by beauty. I was getting ten times more kick out of Chaplin than out of the pictures.

When it was all over and the lights went up, Charlie vanished somewhere into the bowels of the ship and I climbed aloft for wind. I rounded a lifeboat soon afterwards to hear a man muttering and cursing like a savage. "I'd kill the blank, blank and ten more blanks. I'd throttle the breath of life out of their dried up, miserable souls. If I ever . . ."

"What's all this?" I demanded. "Who are you going to kill?" It was Chaplin again. He gave me a look of burning fury. "They found Lindbergh's baby," he hissed. "Dead; been dead a long time. The——" He turned on his heel with tears welling up like puddles in his eyes. I felt the same as he felt as a wave of infuriated horror spread down the decks of a ship gently heaving through the China Sea.

Attempt at Record Ended in Russia

SEEKING to shatter the 8¼-day record of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in the Winnie Mae, Captain Bennett Griffin (left in inset) and Lieutenant James Mattern (right) took off from the Floyd Bennett Airport, New York, with scheduled stops for refueling, and reached Germany safely, only to come to grief on the way from Berlin to Moscow when their plane cracked up in a Russian peat bog. They accomplished the trip to Europe in one long hop from Newfoundland to Germany, and incidentally broke the speed record across the Atlantic. Left is the plane being fueled, while lower right is the start of the flight.

REFINERS ARE GIVEN ANSWER

Automobile Club Questions Conclusions Drawn in Official Statement

In an official statement issued last night, the Victoria branch of the Automobile Club of British Columbia took exception to several of the salient points in a statistical report issued yesterday by oil refining companies, which outlined their reasons for raising the wholesale price of gasoline.

"Taking figures in the article, which also have been checked by the customs department, buying gasoline at 8 cents a gallon (U.S.) in Seattle and including exchange duty, 2½ cents per gallon, excise and sales tax 9 per cent and freight, an imperial gallon, f.o.b., Vancouver, costs 15.78 cents, and in Victoria, 15.51 cents," the statement read.

PROFIT MARGIN

"Present tank wagon price, without road tax, is 22 cents. This would allow the importer a gross profit of more than 6 cents per gallon. The above figures have been verified by the club, but it is pointed out they are based on the most expensive manner of importation of gasoline.

"We cannot imagine that the large oil companies would undertake the expense of running refineries in British Columbia if it were not more profitable. The retail price in Ontario cities at the present time (less road tax) is 18 cents. (Victoria, 25 cents)

"As to the figures quoted as per size of barrel of crude and percentage of gasoline produced from the crude, this statement is considered at least open to questioning.

SUSTAINS LOSS

"According to the article, Mr. Ross, vice-president of the Imperial Oil Company, stated that in 1930 the profit was 1.01 cents per gallon. The article states that since this statement was made by Mr. Ross the price of crude in California did rise, making gasoline cost them 3 cents per gallon more, which, according to their own figures, shows a loss of 1.99 cents per gallon on every gallon turned out of the Ioco plant at the old price and .01 cent per gallon on the new price. It does seem strange that such an efficient management would dare to confront the shareholders with a loss of this character, which in approximately 48,000,000 gallons annual consumption would be nearly $1,000,000," the statement concluded.

Although a speeding automobile tore off two wheels of a baby buggy at Dungannon, Ireland, Mrs. M. Boyd, the mother, saved the infant occupant from injury by holding on to the perambulator.

HEAT KNOCKED HIM OUT

If you think it only natural to be knocked out by the heat, you are wrong. A person who eats properly will not mind the heat—but, on the contrary, enjoy it. What is the secret? Simply this: Keep your blood normally alkaline. How? By making the bulk of your diet fruits, steamed vegetables, salads, egg yolks, almonds, milk and Roman Meal—the only alkali-forming grain food known.

Roman Meal need not necessarily be eaten hot. It is just as beneficial cold, and each Roman Meal package has recipes for delicious ways to eat it cold. It will keep your blood normally alkaline (nonacid) and your digestive system operating properly. So don't think that you can "eat anything" and enjoy the Summer. Stick to alkali-forming foods—stick to your Roman Meal this Summer.

Write for free booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL," and other literature, also sample of Roman Meal and Kofy-Sub, the alkaline beverage, to Robert G. Jackson, M.D., 315 Vine Avenue, Toronto 9, Ontario (Advt.)

FERRY TENDERS ARE CALLED FOR

The Provincial Government is calling for tenders for the Arrowhead-Beaton ferry charter. Sealed bids will be received by the Minister of Public Works up to noon, Tuesday, July 19, for a one-year charter to operate and maintain the ferry service between these two points. Forms and conditions of charter may be obtained at the Public Works Department, Revelstoke, or from Patrick Philip, Deputy Minister of Public Works, at Victoria.

DOMINION HAS PROBE POWER

Attorney-General Says the Province Lacks Authority to Investigate Gas Price

Owing to lack of legislative enactments along lines laid down by Privy Council decision, the Provincial Government finds itself without power to take action in connection with the demand of the Automobile Club of British Columbia, that the Government institute an inquiry into the recent increase in the price of gasoline, Acting Premier and Attorney-General R. H. Pooley announced last night. He pointed out that being without the authority of legislation to investigate commodity prices, the proper procedure for those desiring the investigation is to make application to the Federal Government under the provisions of the Combines Investigation Act, passed at Ottawa in 1923.

NO LEGISLATION

"Considerable public misunderstanding has arisen in connection with the matter," stated Mr. Pooley, "owing to publicity given to a telegram received by that organization from Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett pointing out that fixing of commodity prices, as a result of a judgment of the Privy Council, was a matter that was solely within the jurisdiction of provincial governments.

"Such is indeed the case. Mr. Bennett is a very busy man these days, and he was doubtless not advised that while in theory the matter is one for provincial jurisdiction, that no empowering legislation is on the statute books of this, or several other provinces. A provincial government may only enforce the laws that the Legislative Assembly empowers it to enforce.

POSITION CLEAR

"Therefore, in the absence of Provincial Legislative authority, I can only reaffirm that if a combine exists among the dealers or distributors of gasoline resulting from some agreement, tacit or implied, which fixes a common price or enhances the price of gasoline to the detriment of consumers, or the public generally, full power to investigate the facts and to punish the guilty parties is vested in the Dominion authorities by the Combines Investigation Act, passed by Parliament in 1923. Proceedings under this act may be instituted by the Dominion authorities either on the application of six persons resident in Canada or without any application.

"If, on investigation evidence of a combine is found, a prosecution may be commenced either at the instance of the Solicitor-General of Canada or the Attorney-General of the Province, and every corporation found to be a party to such a combine is liable to a penalty of $25,000.

"In this way only can the immediate action requested by the Automobile Club be secured."

SAYS QUOTA SYSTEM WILL AID DAIRIES

William Goodfellow, N.Z. Trade Adviser, Supports Limitation of Supply

CONVINCED BRITISH DESIRE PREFERENCES

"I am convinced that the British delegation to the Ottawa Conference will be prepared to offer further preference, provided the Dominions are willing to reduce tariffs in favor of British goods," said William Goodfellow, New Zealand director of Empire Dairies, Limited, acting in an advisory capacity to the New Zealand Government delegates, who arrived in Victoria, yesterday morning, on his way to Ottawa.

In an interview aboard the Ms. Aorangi, which brought the New Zealand and Australian delegates to Canada, Mr. Goodfellow stated:

"We must recognize that this will be mainly a commercial conference. Great Britain has lost her premier position as the world's greatest exporter, and is now about to make a big effort to recover lost ground. Empire countries will be given the first opportunity of securing a preferential market, but if we fail to grasp this golden opportunity to secure a permanent tariff preference, and a quota system regulating the volume of foreign produce arriving in the United Kingdom, we will not, in all probability, have a second opportunity.

"The primary duty of the British Government is to endeavor to legislate so as to provide sufficient work to feed and clothe its 45,000,000 persons. If Empire countries fail to respond adequately, the United Kingdom will have no alternative but to make the best bargains possible with any foreign country which will undertake to buy British goods. In short, the United Kingdom must pay for food and raw materials with manufactured goods.

QUOTA FOR DAIRIES

"I would like to emphasize the fact," said Mr. Goodfellow, "that a foreign tariff of, say, 2d per lb. on all foreign butter, without restricting foreign markets, would not in reality be of permanent value to the producers of Australia and New Zealand. In all probability, it would have the effect of slightly raising the price and discouraging the production of foreign countries, but we must remember that the retail price in England is largely determined by the volume of supplies and the ability of the people to buy the goods.

"Since 1914, the total of butter imports into the United Kingdom from all countries has increased by over 80 per cent, with every indication of a still further substantial increase in the near future.

"The population of the United Kingdom, on the other hand, is increasing very slowly, and if the dairy industry of the world is to expand rapidly, the price in the United Kingdom must be substantially reduced in order to enable the increased volume to be put into consumption.

MAINTAINING PRICES

"It is, therefore, very obvious that, if we are to maintain the price of butterfat at a figure which will be satisfactory to our producers, and which will enable the people of New Zealand to purchase an adequate quantity of British goods, then a quota system must be applied to foreign imports which will have the effect of limiting the quantity of foreign dairy produce arriving in the United Kingdom to a figure which will enable the price to be maintained at a payable figure.

"I am quoting butter, but, of course, the same principle will apply more or less to meat and wheat and most other primary products of foreign countries," Mr. Goodfellow said.

FAIR OFFICIALS GIVEN RATE CUT

Excursion Fares Will Attract People From Interior to Exhibition Here

Coupled with the announcement that nearly 200 new members have been added to the roster of the British Columbia Agricultural Association was the statement, made yesterday, by Alderman H. O. Litchfield that special excursion rates on the railways have been secured to induce people to come here during fair week, which is from August 22 to 27.

Alderman Litchfield said that the C.P.R., C.N.R. and the Great Northern Railway had all co-operated in the matter and will give reduced rates from points West, inclusive of Nelson, so that many people from the Interior are expected to visit the seventy-first annual exhibition at the Willows.

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED

It also was announced, yesterday, that improvements were being carried out at the Willows grounds so that increased stock entries could be handled.

City Building Inspector James Barf, yesterday, inspected the buildings and outlined a programme of work for the improvement of the sheep barn, cattle barn and race course. A barrier is to be erected for the safety of the public at the race track, while the sheep and cattle barns will undergo several alterations.

These improvements will make it possible for the association, this year, to house the sheep instead of leaving them in the open, as had been done last year in order to accommodate the large number of cattle entries.

Seek Details—The local branch of the Automobile Club of British Columbia will request all the information possible connected with the imposing of a fine upon T. Walton in Saanich. The father of the young man, who was fined on the ground that he was driving at an immoderate speed, made a complaint to the club, of which he is a member, stating that the circumstances were not as represented, and requested action be taken. The club will fully investigate the matter.

Vanity places an inordinate value upon possessions, real or imaginary; whereas self-respect is an appreciation, not only of the dignity of one's being, but it is also an expression of one's love of beauty and order; therefore, surely it is justifiable to try and look as presentable as possible! DEATH CALLS FRANK GIBBS

Well-Known Business Man Succumbs to Long Illness —Funeral Tomorrow

FRANK B. GIBBS

One of Victoria's highly respected citizens and leading business men passed away Wednesday in the person of Frank Burgess Gibbs, aged fifty-nine years, of 1192 Yates Street. The funeral service will take place at Christ Church Cathedral at 2:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Gibbs had been in ill-health for some time, his retirement from the general managership of the Brackman-Ker Milling Company having been necessitated some time ago by his failing health.

NATIVE SON

The deceased was born here in 1873 and for practically the whole of his life resided in this province. He joined the firm of Brackman-Ker Milling Company as a clerk in 1895 and rapidly won promotion. From 1898 until 1906 he was in charge of the Kootenay territory, with branches at Nelson and Rossland.

From 1906 to 1908 he was manager of the Calgary mill and elevator, but came here in 1908 to take over the position of manager of the local office, a position he held until 1917. During that period he also was secretary of the company.

When illness forced the retirement of the late D. R. Ker, Mr. Gibbs took over the post of general manager, but in September of 1930, ill-health also compelled Mr. Gibbs to retire. His retirement was made the occasion of a banquet, at which members of the staff presented him with an engraved gold watch as a token of the esteem in which he was held.

HAD HOST OF FRIENDS

His kindly disposition and genial character won for him a host of friends. He was a popular member of the Pacific Club and Round-Table organization, and although he did not aspire to public office, he took a keen interest in municipal and political affairs.

Surviving him are his widow and three children, Thomas, Francis A. and Sheila Gibbs, all residing at the Yates Street home, where the family has lived for the past twenty-four years.

The funeral cortege will leave Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and proceed to the Christ Church Cathedral, where the service will be conducted at 2:15 o'clock by Ven. Archdeacon Laycock. The remains will be sent to Vancouver for cremation. It is requested that no flowers be sent.

Greets Ministers—L. R. MacGregor, Australian trade commissioner for Canada, who makes his headquarters in Toronto, reached Victoria yesterday from the East in order to meet the Economic Conference party here. He accompanied hem East.

Winds and Rain Cause Crop Loss

WINNIPEG, July 14 (CP).—Torrential rains, accompanied by high winds, swept over large sections of the Prairies late today, disrupting communications and damaging crops and gardens. Northern Saskatchewan, where the wheat is just heading out, received a drenching and crops over a considerable area suffered.

Rain fell in torrents for a few minutes at Winnipeg, bringing relief after an intensely hot day.

From Northern Manitoba came reports of damage to telegraph and telephone lines.

Details of the storm's ravages there were lacking.

Solarium Makes Appeal for Jam

Despite the fact that this is the very zenith of the small fruit season, the Queen Alexandra Solarium at Malahat Beach has come to the end of its jam supplies. Naturally, where there are so many children, almost endless quantities of jam are required to meet the demand of juvenile appetites, and the headquarters office, yesterday, issued an urgent appeal for donations. If housewives, when putting down fruit for the Winter storehouse, would set aside just a jar or two for the Solarium, there would be an ample supply. Donations may be left at the headquarters office, Pemberton Building.

Irregular Eating Cause Of Much Hyperacidity

Recipes for Some Simple Dishes Suited to Summer-Time Given and Suggestions for Careful Diet Made

(By EDITH M. BARBER)

Do you know any men or women who carry their supply of bicarbonate of soda with them as regularly as they carry their pocketbooks? They resort to it between meals to get rid of that burning sensation which an accumulation of the hydrochloride acid in the stomach causes.

Hydrochloric acid is a natural and valuable component of the gastric juice. Its place is to neutralize the alkaline saliva which has been mixed with the food, which is in the mouth and which starts the digestion of starch there, and which continues its action in the food in the upper part of the stomach. Into the lower part of the stomach flows the gastric juice and after it is thoroughly mixed by the churning action of constantly moving, the preparation of the protein food for absorption is begun by the action of the gastric fluids.

When we are in good health the gastric juice is dormant between meals, but as soon as we begin to eat it begins to flow to be ready to digest the food when it reaches the lower part of the stomach.

Sometimes the natural action of the gastric juice is disturbed and we find that acid is either flowing in too large or in too small quantities. The first condition is the most common and it is known as hyperacidity. The opposite condition of too little acid is known as hyposacidity. The causes of these conditions are not always certain.

SHOULD EAT OFTEN

The person with an excess of acid should eat often. When it is not possible to take food, soda is a stop gap. Another aid is olive oil. Any other bland fat would do as well, but it is possible to have a little bottle of oil in the office or even in the pocket to take when that burning sensation shows that the acid needs satisfying. Soda and acid work in different ways, but both of them are remedies. The first neutralizes the acid, the second retards its flow. For this reason olive oil or cream is a good thing to take before going to bed.

Because the acid often irritates the lining of the stomach, foods which are high in flavors and rough in texture are to be avoided. No strong seasonings, no coarse foods such as whole grains and berries with seeds, should be taken. For serious conditions even the fiber of raw and cooked vegetables is irritating and straining is necessary.

Acids, such as vinegar and lemon juice, are, of course, irritating and must be avoided. Orange juice, though, does not seem to have ill effects in all conditions. Some doctors advise its trial. Sweet fruits such as prunes, grapes, plums, sweet apples, sweet cherries and bananas, are the fruits always allowed. Bland foods, such as eggs, fine cereals, custards, cream and cottage cheese with soup and ice cream, are always acceptable. Vegetables made into timbales or souffles are well taken. Fish is usually digested well. Meat, in some cases, can be taken well in small quantities. There are individual differences in this respect.

MILK IS THE STANDBY

Milk in some form is the standby in the diet. Whole milk, buttermilk and acidophilus milk can be chosen. The latter has the great advantage of getting rid of the toxins in the intestines, and for that reason has double value. It may be mixed with a chocolate syrup or a cocoa beverage if you don't like it in its original form.

Very sweet foods are to be avoided as they are irritating. Candy and pastries are off the list permanently.

Care must be taken to get plenty of food and of a variety which will supply all the necessary food values.

BAKED CUSTARD

Three eggs, three tablespoons sugar, salt, three cups milk, one teaspoon vanilla, nutmeg.

Beat the eggs enough to mix the yolks and whites and add the other ingredients. Pour into custard cups and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate over (375 degrees F.) until the custard is set. This may be tested by trying with a knife, and if the mixture is jellied it is ready to remove from the oven. Set the cups where they will cool quickly.

MILK WITH CHOCOLATE

Three-quarter cup acidophilus milk, two tablespoons chocolate syrup or one quarter cup cocoa beverage, cracked ice.

If syrup is used, put with milk and ice into a shaker and shake well. If cocoa beverage is used, put milk into glass, add ice and fill glass with carbonated beverage.

COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

One teaspoon gelatin, one tablespoon cold water, one half pound cottage cheese, one tablespoon ground onions or chives, lettuce.

Soak gelatin in cold water three minutes and melt over hot water. Stir into cottage cheese. Stir in the onion or chives and put into a small greased mold or bowl. Put in refrigerator to chill at least one hour. Turn out on a large salad or chop-plate. Surround with shredded lettuce or watercress.

Clubs and Societies

Fairfield W.M.S.

The first social gathering to be held at the manse of Fairfield United Church, to which Rev. Dr. E. A. and Mrs. Henry have recently come, will take place on Thursday, when the Women's Missionary Society will hold its monthly meeting.

Units of weight and measure are kept buried in England and are dug up every tenth year. The standard year measure, made in bronze, and the standard pound and kilogram weights, of platinum, are kept imbedded in the masonry of the Houses of Parliament. These units of length and weight will be taken up this Spring to be removed to the National Physical Laboratory, where they will be carefully checked with the standards to which reference is commonly made, and they are then to be reinterred. This practice is due to the fact that in 1834 the country's standard yard measure was destroyed when the Houses of Parliament burned. Afterward, to recover the yard length, within the microscopic fraction of an inch required, took some years.

Slow Progress of Geneva Committee Deplored by Women

Resolution of Criticism Passed by Canadian Business and Professional Federation Meets Approval of League of Nations Representative

VANCOUVER, July 14 (CP).—A resolution scoring the "apparent lack of satisfactory progress" by technical committees on disarmament was passed today at the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. The convention urged the Canadian Government maintain full representation at Geneva throughout the conference for reduction and limitation of armaments and press for definite action. The resolution was presented by Miss Hazel M. Taylor, Montreal, and was approved by Miss Mary Craig McGeachy, official representative of the League of Nations, present at the meeting.

ROUND TABLE DISCUSSIONS

Consideration of business arising from reports and round table discussions occupied most of today's session. A discussion on membership brought many suggestions, and it was decided the spirit of federation would be greatly assisted by naming annual national and international club nights. The Newsletter, official quarterly publication of the association, will be continued under the same name for another year, when a new title will be chosen.

Miss Ethel Thornton, Winnipeg, presided at the round table discussion on "Club Mechanics." Miss Blanche Baker, St. Catharines, discussed finance. The question of junior membership was studied also.

GIVEN RECEPTION

An informal reception was held last evening in the Oval Room of Hotel Vancouver, when delegates and their friends gathered for a social hour. Guests were received by the British Columbia vice-president, Miss Katharine Campbell; Miss Josephine Dauphinee; Miss Mima Brown, Vancouver president; and were presented to Miss Mary Craig McGeachy, of Geneva, and Miss Margaret Clay, of Victoria.

Greetings were brought by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe from His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and from the Government of British Columbia, and by Ald. E. W. Dean from the city of Vancouver in the absence of His Worship Mayor L. D. Taylor. Vocal solos were given by Miss Isobel Gartshore, with Mr. Ira Swartz at the piano, and two interesting films of Vancouver and British Columbia, the property of the Canadian Government, were shown. A buffet supper was served.

The members of the Saseenos branch of the W.A., under whose auspices the party was held, were in charge of the stalls, which included ice cream, sold by Mr. and Mrs. Clements and Miss D. CHAPTER XIII

"Don't you find it very bleak here in Winter, Mrs. Willett?" asked Inspector Narracott.

"Oh! we love it. Such a change. We're South Africans, you know."

Her tone was brisk and ordinary.

"Really? What part of South Africa?"

"Oh! the Cape. Violet has never been in England before. She is enchanted with it—finds the snow most romantic. This house is really most comfortable."

"What led you to come to this part of the world?" There was just gentle curiosity in his voice.

"We've read so many books on Devonshire, and especially on Dartmoor. We were reading one on the boat. I've always had a hankering to see Dartmoor."

"What made you fix on Exhampton? It's not a very well known little town."

"Well—we were reading these books as I told you, and there was a boy on board who talked about Exhampton—he was so enthusiastic about it."

"What was his name?" asked the inspector. "Did he come from this part of the world?"

"Now, what was his name? Cullen—I think. No—it was Smythe. How stupid of me. I really can't remember. You know how it is on board ship, inspector, you get to know people so well, and a week after you've landed you can't even be sure of their names!"

She laughed.

"But he was such a nice boy—not good-looking, reddish hair, but a delightful smile."

"And on the strength of that you decided to take a house in these parts?" said the inspector smiling.

"Yes, wasn't it mad of us?"

"Clever," thought Narracott. "Distinctly clever." He began to realize Mrs. Willett's methods. She always carried the war into the enemy's country.

The Inspector rose. "How did you know the name of a house agent to write to in Exhampton?" he asked.

There was a pause. The first pause in the conversation. He thought he caught a glimpse of vexation, more of anger in Mrs. Willett's eyes. He had hit upon something to which she had not thought out the answer. She turned towards her daughter.

"How did we, Violet? I can't remember."

There was a different look in the girl's eyes. She looked frightened.

"Why, of course," said Mrs. Willett. "Delfridges. Their information bureau. It's too wonderful I always go and inquire there about everything."

"Quick," thought the inspector. "Very quick. But not quite quick enough. I had you there, madam."

He made a cursory examination of the house. There was nothing there. No papers, no locked drawers or cupboards.

Mrs. Willett accompanied him, talking brightly. He took his leave, thanking her politely. Ae he departed he caught a glimpse of the girl's face over her shoulder. There was no mistaking the expression on her face.

It was fear. Fear written there plainly at this moment when she thought herself unobserved.

Mrs. Willett was still talking.

"Alas. We have one grave drawback here. The domestic problem, inspector. Servants will not stand these country places. All of mine have been threatening to leave us for some time, and the news of the murder seems to have unsettled them utterly. Perhaps men servants would answer the case."

The inspector answered mechanically. He was thinking of the expression he had surprised on the girl's face.

Mrs. Willett had been clever—but not quite clever enough.

He went away cogitating on his problem. If the Willetts had nothing to do with Captain Trevelyan's death, why was Violet Willett afraid?

He fired his last shot. With his foot actually over the threshold of the front door he turned back.

"By the way," he said, "you know young Pearson, don't you?"

There was no doubt of the pause this time. A dead silence of about a second. Then Mrs. Willett spoke. "Pearson?" she said. "I don't think——"

She was interrupted. A queer sighing breath came from the room behind her and then the sound of a fall. The inspector was over the threshold and into the room in a flash.

Violet Willett had fainted.

"Poor child," cried Mrs. Willett. "All this strain and shock. She isn't strong. Thank you so much, inspector. Yes, on the sofa, please. If you would ring the bell. No, I don't think there is anything more you can do. Thank you so much."

The inspector went down the drive with his lips set in a grim line.

Jim Pearson was engaged, he knew, to that extremely charming looking girl he had seen in London. Why, then, should Violet Willett faint at the mention of his name? What was the connection between Jim Pearson and the Willetts?

He paused indecisively as he emerged from the front gate. Then he took from his pocket a small notebook. In it was entered a list of the inhabitants of the six bungalows built by Captain Trevelyan with a few brief remarks against each name. Inspector Narracott's stubby forefinger paused at the entry against No. 6, The Cottages.

He strode briskly down the lane and beat a firm rat-tat on the knocker of No. 6—the bungalow inhabited by Mr. Duke.

Leading the way up the path to the major's front door Mr. Enderby rapped upon it in a cheery fashion. The door was flung open almost immediately and Major Burnaby, red in the face, appeared on the threshold.

"It's you, is it?" he observed with no great fervor in his voice. Then he caught sight of Emily.

"This is Miss Trefusis," said Charles with the air of one producing the ace of trumps. "She was very anxious to see you."

"May I come in?" said Emily with her sweetest smile.

"Oh! yes. Certainly. Of course—oh, yes, of course."

Stumbling in his speech, the major backed into the living-room and began pulling forward chairs and pushing aside tables.

Emily, as was her fashion, came straight to the point. "You see, Major Burnaby, I am engaged to Jim—Jim Pearson, you know, and naturally I am terribly anxious about him."

In the act of pushing a table, the major paused with his mouth open. "Oh, dear," he said, "that's a bad business. My dear young lady, I am more sorry about it than I can say."

"Major Burnaby, tell me honestly. Do you yourself believe he is guilty? Oh, you needn't mind saying if you do. I would a hundred times rather people didn't lie to me."

"No, I do not think him guilty," said the major in a loud assertive voice. He hit a cushion once or twice vigorously, and then sat down facing Emily. "The chap is a nice young chap. Mind you, he might be a bit weak. Don't be offended if I say he's the kind that might easily go wrong if temptation came in his way. But murder—no. And mind you, I know what I am talking about—a lot of subalterns have passed through my hands in my time. It's the fashion to poke fun at retired army officers nowadays, but we know a thing or two all the same, Miss Trefusis."

"I'm sure you do," said Emily. "I'm awfully grateful to you for saying what you have. Major Burnaby, who do you think did it—have you any idea at all?"

"No. I am da——er—bother—if I have," said the major. "Took it for granted it was some chap that broke in, but now the police say that can't be so. Well, it's their job, and I suppose they know best. But all the same it beats me, Miss Trefusis. Trevelyan hadn't an enemy in the world as far as I know."

"And you would know if anybody did," said Emily.

"Yes, I suppose I knew more of Trevelyan than many of his relations did."

"And you can't think of anything—anything that would help, in any way?" asked Emily.

The major pulled at his short mustache. "I'm sorry, but there isn't any thing. Trevelyan just led an ordinarily normal life. Got very few letters and wrote less. There were no female complications in his life, I am sure of that. No, it beats me, Miss Trefusis."

All three were silent.

"What about that servant of his?" asked Charles.

"Been with him for years. Absolutely faithful."

"He had married lately," said Charles.

"Married a perfectly decent, respectable girl."

"Major Burnaby," said Emily, "forgive me putting it this way—but didn't you get the wind up rather easily about him?"

The major rubbed his nose with the embarrassed air that always came over him when the table turning was mentioned.

"Yes, there's no denying it, I did. I knew the whole thing was tommy rot and yet—"

"You felt somehow it wasn't," said Emily helpfully.

The major nodded.

"That's why I wonder—" said Emily.

The two men looked at her.

"I can't quite put what I mean in the way I want," said Emily. "What I mean is this: You say you don't believe in all this table turning business—and yet, in spite of the awful weather and what must have seemed to you the absurdity of the whole thing—you felt so uneasy that you had to set out, and see for yourself that Captain Trevelyan was all right. Well, don't you think that may have been because—because there was something in the atmosphere.

"I mean," she continued desperately as she saw no trace of comprehension in the major's face, "that there was something in someone else's mind as well as yours. And that somehow or other you felt it."

"Well, I don't know," said the major. He rubbed his nose again. "Of course," he added hopefully, "women do take these things seriously."

"Women!" said Emily. "Yes," she murmured softly to herself, "I believe somehow or other that's it."

She turned abruptly to Major Burnaby.

"What are they like, these Willetts?"

"Oh, well—" Major Burnaby cast about in his mind; he was clearly no good at personal descriptions. "Well—they are very kind, you know—very helpful and all that."

"Why do they want to take a house like Sittaford House at this time of year?"

"I can't imagine," said the major. "Nobody does," he added.

"People don't do things without a reason."

"Well, I don't know," said Major Burnaby cautiously. "Some people don't. You wouldn't, Miss Trefusis. But some people—" He sighed and shook his head.

"You are sure they hadn't met Captain Trevelyan before?"

The major scouted the idea Trevelyan would have said something to him. No, he was as astonished himself as anyone could be.

"What was Mrs. Willett's attitude towards Captain Trevelyan?" asked Emily. "Did she try to avoid him?"

A faint chuckle came from the major.

"No, indeed she didn't Pestered the life out of him—always asking him to come and see them."

"Oh!" said Emily thoughtfully. She paused and then said, "So she might—just possibly she might have taken Sittaford House just on purpose to get acquainted with Captain Trevelyan."

"Well," the major seemed to turn it over in his mind. "Yes, I suppose she might have. Rather an expensive way of doing things."

"I wonder," said Emily.

"The inspector thought of that, too," said Burnaby.

Emily felt a sudden irritation against Inspector Narracott. Everything that she thought of seemed to have already been thought of by the inspector. It was galling to a young woman who prided herself on being sharper than other people.

She rose and held out her hand. "Thank you very much," she said simply.

"I wish I could help you more," said the major. "At any rate count on me for anything you want."

"Thank you," said Emily. "I will."

"Goodbye, sir," said Enderby. "I shall be along in the morning with my camera you know."

Burnaby grunted.

Emily and Charles retraced their steps to Mrs. Curtis.

"Come into my room, I want to talk to you," said Emily. She sat on the one chair and Charles sat on the bed.

"Now, listen," she said. "I think I've got a kind of starting point. I may be wrong and I may be right. At any rate it's an idea."

Ringing Welcome Is Given Delegates at Good-Will Luncheon

Australia and New Zealand Representatives to Imperial Economic Conference Guests of Provincial Government at Function Here Yesterday

ENTHUSIASTIC scenes were witnessed here yesterday at the Empress Hotel, where the Australian and New Zealand delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa were welcomed by representatives of the Dominion, Province and City, and by a cheering assemblage of professional and business men as well as military and naval officers.

The welcome to the delegates, who are carrying to Ottawa the responsibilities for the future welfare of the Southern Dominions in matters of trade, was one such as never before accorded a group of visitors to the shores of Vancouver Island, the balcony of the Pacific. The greeting was in the form of a luncheon sponsored by the Provincial Government.

SPIRIT OF GOOD WILL

Throughout the whole of the time the delegates had at their disposal before the departure of the R.M.S. Aorangi, there was a profound spirit of good will, in word and gesture, between visitors and citizens. In full realization of the importance of the conference to which they are going, the accredited representatives of the Dominions to the South lost no opportunity to tell their hosts that they were whole-heartedly behind any movement which had for its purpose the stimulation of trade between all Dominions of the British Empire.

The addresses at the luncheon, though brief, were sincere. The principal speakers were Rt. Hon. Stanley M. Bruce, representing Australia, and Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, representing New Zealand, who responded to the toast to guests proposed by Hon. J. W. Jones, Provincial Minister of Finance, who presided at the luncheon in the absence of Acting-Premier Hon. R. H. Pooley, K.C. Both speakers were emphatic in their declarations that the Imperial Economic Conference must not fail.

As representatives of the two Dominions across the Pacific, both Mr. Bruce and Mr. Coates admitted that the whole trade future of the British Empire depended upon the outcome of the deliberations at the Dominion Capital. Neither could see, at this time, any possibility of failure, and were agreed that if the conference did not accomplish all the ideals held by the delegates, it would at least lay the foundation of a better understanding of the problems of the various component parts of the world's greatest Empire.

LOYAL TO EMPIRE

The patriotism which carried the Dominions across the seas eighteen years ago to a different crisis in the Empire, is not one whit less today. The spirit of love of Empire, loyalty to the Mother Country and closer relationship between the British peoples, were fervently expressed by the two speakers in the course of their remarks.

Indicating the importance of the visitors and the desire of the people of Victoria to do honor to Australia and New Zealand through their delegates, upwards of 400 attended the official function. Hon. J. W. Fordham Johnson, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, extended greetings to the delegates on behalf of the people of the province. Senator A. D. McRae welcomed the visitors on behalf of the Dominion Government. Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, represented the Provincial Government and read a telegram from Premier S. F. Tolmie, who is in Ottawa. Mayor David Leeming officially welcomed the delegates on behalf of the citizens of Victoria. Then followed the addresses by Rt. Hon. S. M. Bruce and Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates.

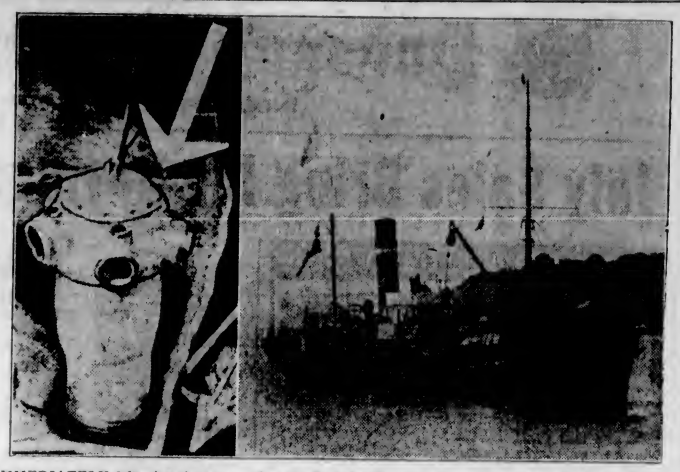

INVITED GUESTS

Those who were present as invited guests of the Provincial Government were: Hon. J. W. Fordham Johnson, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia; Senator and Mrs. A. D. McRae, Senator and Mrs. R. F. Green, Senator and Mrs. G. H. Barnard, Senator A. E. Planta, Commander V. G. Brodeur, R.C.N., senior naval officer; Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, D.O.C., M.D. No. 11, and Mrs. Brown; Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance; Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, and Mrs. Howe; Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Lands, and Mrs. Lougheed; Hon. Goes to Aid of Stricken Submarine

IMMEDIATELY following the reports that the French submarine, Promethee, had gone down off Cherbourg, the Italian salvage ship, Artiglio II, left her moorings to go to the rescue. The French submarine is down in forty fathoms of water, and the Italian vessel is the only one which carries diving equipment to get to that depth. Above is a picture of the rescue ship, while at the left is a view of the special diving compartment in which divers can be lowered to great depths.

OTTER BOASTS DIESEL ENGINE

Former B.C. Coast Service Freighter Remodeled for Fish Carrying

TOFINO, July 14.—The motor vessel Otter arrived back from Nanaimo over the week-end with 200 tons of coal, completing her first voyage since being converted from a steamer to a motorship. Her steam engine and boilers have been removed and replaced by a 160-horsepower Diesel engine. Structurally she is a different looking ship from when she was in the service of the C.P.R., and one would never recognize her as the same vessel. Her entire upper deck has been removed and she is now a trim and neat-looking craft, with pilothouse and engineroom all aft.

The transformation was all carried out at Ahousat, where she is now owned by a pilchard reduction plant, in which service she will be used as a carrier.

The installation of the Diesel engine was carried out by Hilmer Wingen, of the Tofino Machine Shop and Ways. Mr. Wingen accompanied the vessel on her trip to Vancouver and Nanaimo and back, and reports her engine as working very satisfactorily.

SCHOOL DOCTOR GIVES REPORT

Thousands of Students Inspected—Disabilities Corrected

Some idea of the scope of medical work in the city's schools was given in the annual report presented to the School Board at its meeting, Wednesday night, by Dr. David Donald. During the past term the doctor personally made physical examinations of 2,321 students, while the three staff nurses carried out 27,772 inspections and made 1,476 visits to homes.

Clinic cases numbered 322, while treatments totaled 829. Total number of disabilities corrected or improved during the year amounted to 139, out of a total of 209 cases, it was reported.

Two hundred and seventy-four cases of infectious diseases occurred in the schools, not one school being immune. This number represents 4.5 per cent of the total enrollment. Dr. Donald, in explaining that every school was affected by measles this year, whereas last year there was not a single case, said that this disease appeared to move in cycles.

Physical education programmes were carried out in the schools during the term, while health lectures proved of considerable value.

Just Roamin' Around

BY TWO ROVERS

You may recall that a little while ago we had something to say about procrastination and its baneful results.

Only this morning my conscience caretaker, Rover, drew my belated attention to the fact that I am one of the great army of procrastinators and that I have put off, from time to time, saying something about that most interesting subject the little feathered fellow citizens we call sparrows.

It must be, I confess it, some three weeks ago, or more, that I first told Rover that I intended to write up what happened one early morning on our way to breakfast, and here we are, all that valuable time later, and nothing has been done about it.

Putting off is a sin that causes more trouble and heartburn than any of the other silly and nonsensical misdemeanors I can recall at the moment, and Rover says, and I can well believe it, that his lord and master is one of the worst offenders in this particular type of doing "what one didn't oughter be doin'."

You know how it is! A certain thing has to be done, say by 12 o'clock, and at 9 o'clock one sits down to do it—always provided it is the kind of a thing that one can do or must do sitting down. By 9:30 o'clock, having rolled and licked and smoked several cigarettes, one makes a further attempt to get started at the blamed thing, and then suddenly remembers something else that is far more interesting to do, and it is 10 o'clock before we can say, "Scat!"

PUT OFF PUTTING OFF!

That is a rattling good motto to stick up on your office wall, and so do it now! Don't put off putting it up on your office wall till you forget to do it now, or you will some day forget to put off putting it off, and forget your office wall, and never get it done at all. Savez?

We fully intended, this very day, to tell you the put-off story of the sparrow we met on our way to breakfast on one bright and sunny morning about three or four days—we mean weeks—ago, but, as we have put it off so long, it is not much use to try to tell it to you in this roverism, for, so we notice, or rather Rover has drawn our attention to it, we have used up so much space explaining the wrong of putting off that we have once more to put off telling you the sad story of the "spagger what fell out of the parental spout."

DO IT NOW!

You know, from your own experience, how foolish it is to put off till tomorrow what you should do and could do, today, but you don't have the slightest idea how often two rovers have sat twirling their thumbs, awaiting someone's arrival, as promised at a set time, when the start to be made to get here to see us has been (as is this, our attempt to tell you our story of the sparrow who could not fly) postponed, put off, and "filed for further reference"; this is one of the ills we all suffer from, from time to time, time and time again.

"It would be a most uninteresting world to live in, master, if all the things that are scheduled to happen at a certain time happened at that precise and certain time, so quit your kicking and shut up for the day, and come with me to Duncan and I will show you how a small city can and does (no shenanigan about it) decorate her streets, shops and telegraph, telephone and other wires, so that her downtown looks like a garden and makes one put off leaving for home, Victoria, till the early hours of the morning!"

PICTURE VOTING IN INDIA

Pictures will be used in one method to help the illiterate voter in India cast his ballot for the candidate he wishes elected in the next election. The manner of voting is expected to complicate the task of the Franchise Committee of the Round Table Conference, now busily at work. From about 70 to 90 per cent of Indian voters are illiterate. To overcome this difficulty the polling officer is now allowed to help an illiterate elector in marking his paper. Other devices have also been employed. For instance, the names of the candidates may be indicated on the ballot paper by means of pictures. Where this is done the elector votes for the elephant, the tiger, or even the umbrella or the bicycle, according to the symbol which represents the candidate of his choice.

GATHERING MAY BENEFIT WORLD

B. C. Nicholas Speaks to Rotary Club on Coming Economic Conference at Ottawa

Speaking before the Rotary Club yesterday, B. C. Nicholas referred to the Economic Conference set for Ottawa as capable of making a contribution comparable with that made at Lausanne. He hoped that nothing but the best for the world would emanate from it.

After tracing the history of the Colonial conference, which had preceded the Imperial gatherings, the speaker alluded to this present postponed conference as the first meeting outside of London. The highest hopes had been aroused with regard to it owing to the amount of publicity which had been given. He felt, however, that it would be a mistake to expect the restoration of the whole world from its deliberations.

The Empire, said Mr. Nicholas, was based upon something much higher than trade. At the same time trade brought about a better understanding among the parts of the Empire. Trade was subsidiary to the higher principles involved.

WORLD TRADE

There would have to be many points of difference considered in connection with the negotiations. It could never be forgotten that Great Britain was a world trader, and this wide trade would have to be maintained.

The greatest thing that could come out of the conference was the spirit of world relationship. This would be the largest contribution that could be made. The prosperity of one part depended in the final analysis upon the prosperity of the whole.

Before introducing the subject, Mr. Nicholas complimented Rotary for its influence in international good will. He also congratulated J. H. Beatty, M.P.P., upon his selection as a director for Canada.

Why should Berlin be the gayest town in Europe? Because it is always on the Spree.

Woman Preacher Is Welcomed by Famous Pulpits

Dr. Maude Royden, the famous woman London preacher, has evidently won the hearts of the Scottish religious leaders, for she has had the signal and unprecedented honor, according to The Christian World, of London, of being the first woman to occupy the pulpits of three of Scotland's greatest and most noted shrines. Five or six years ago she preached at St. Cuthbert's Church, which is the old parish church of Edinburgh, and still holds the premier place among the churches of the city.

A few months ago, after the University of Glasgow had conferred on her the degree of Doctor of Divinity, she preached in Glasgow Cathedral, famous for its position and influence in the struggle for religious independence in Scotland.

Recently, Dr. Royden preached both morning and evening at St. Giles' Cathedral, Edinburgh, from the pulpit of John Knox.

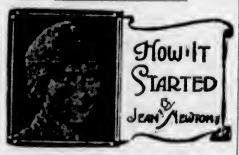

STUDENTS HAVE BIG TOOTHACHE

School Dentist Performs 8,756 Operations on 1,179 Pupils During One Term

It was an awful big toothache that city school students had last term, according to the dental report for the year just closed. No less than 1,618 pupils received attention, and of this number 1,117 were given treatments. In all 8,756 operations were performed.

The report, filed at Wednesday night's meeting of the School Board, revealed that 4,471 students had been examined during the past term, and of this number 2,858 had been found fit.

Of the number of cases treated, 1,179 were completed at the school clinic and 199 by dentists in private practice. The percentage of those found fit on the school enrollment at the end of June was 64 per cent.

"TO HUM AND HAW"

This is a phrase constantly used in common speech, which our readers will doubtless be surprised to find tracked to its origin.

The allusion in "hum and haw" is, of course, to meaningless sounds uttered between words by one who is hesitant or uncertain in his speech. For instance, "I wanted—hum—to say—haw—something—hm—about the—ha—charm of our host."

And it sounds like modern slang, does it not, to refer to someone as "humming and hawing." And yet we find this used as early as 1608 in "A Nest of Ninnies," by Robert Arnim.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Settled Once More

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Adventure for the young is best;
I'd rather stay at home and rest.
—Jerry Muskrat.

The water fell rapidly in the Laughing Brook and the Smiling Pool until they were quite themselves again, laughing merrily and smiling happily. Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat didn't wait for this, however. Just as the water had drpped far enough to allow them to work they became very busy.

"Shall we rebuild out in the Smiling Pool?" asked Jerry.

Mrs. Jerry shook her head in a most decided manner. "No, sir," said she. "That is, we won't rebuild out there now. Perhaps we will at the end of the Summer so as to have the house ready for Winter. Now we will do a little remodeling on this house in the bank."

"What is the matter with this house as it is?" demanded Jerry. "It always has been good enough and I don't see why it isn't good enough now. I don't see any sense in doing a lot of foolish and useless work."

"Who said anything about useless and foolish work?" demanded Mrs. Jerry rather sharply.

"Well, work that isn't necessary is both foolish and useless," declared Jerry. "What was good enough ought still to be good enough."

They swam down to the Big Rock in the Smiling Pool.

"It ought to be, but it isn't," declared Mrs. Jerry. "To begin with, that bedroom has been thoroughly flooded and it will take some time for it to dry out enough for a nursery, and that is what it will have to be if we use it. Then, when we left it we dug our way through the roof, so here we are with an entrance right out on the Green Meadows where anyone who happens along can enter."

"We can cover that up with a lot of sticks and some grass," said Jerry.

Mrs. Jerry didn't take the trouble to even reply to this suggestion. "The thing for us to do is to make a new bedroom with a secret entrance hall connecting the main hall just below the water line," said she. "Then we shall feel reasonably safe and comfortable, knowing that no visitors can reach us excepting by diving and swimming."

This was sound sense and Jerry knew it. So they went to work, Mrs. Jerry taking the lead. In a surprising short time they had the new bedroom completed. Like the old one, it was just under the sod and partly protected by the roots of a tree. A little air-hole led to the surface and this was hidden nicely under a mass of drift stuff that the flood had left there. When the last bit of digging was finished, Mrs. Jerry sighed.

"There," said she, "my Spring housework is done and I begin to feel settled once more. I do hate this unsettled feeling."

"So do I," said Jerry. "Now that we are all settled, what do you say to looking for some clams."

Mrs. Jerry agreed, and together they swam to a certain place in the Laughing Brook just above where it entered the Smiling Pool, dived, and when they came up each held a clam. They swam down to the big Rock in the Smiling Pool. The top of it was now above water. They climbed up and settled themselves in comfort. Then for a few minutes each was too busy to talk. The clams were opened and eaten and the shells pushed off the edge of the Big Rock into the water to sink to the bottom.

Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun was just going to bed behind the Purple Hills from which the Black Shadows were starting out across the Green Meadows. A thousand relatives of Peeper the Hyla made a mighty chorus of rejoicing from the Smiling Pool and the swamp above it. Redwing the Blackbird was singing softly "Oka-lee, oka-lee," from the top of an alder bush. It was good to be alive. And it was good to be right there in the Smiling Pool and to know that they were settled once more. Anyway, that is the way Jerry and Mrs. Jerry felt.

Surveyors Aboard Hydrographic Ship Cover Much Ocean

Nine Hundred Miles of Ship Sounding Completed Since April Besides Inside Work—Aerial Photographers Take 2,000 Pictures

Since leaving here to start the season's work on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, the hydrographic surveyors on board the Ss. Lillooet have covered a lot of ground, and accomplished a lot of important work, H. D. Parizeau stated yesterday. The Lillooet was first employed in making examinations of doubtful spots in Barkley Sound, while ship soundings were carried out between Barkley and Clayoquot Sounds, in all about 900 miles of soundings having been satisfactorily completed. Triangulation and observations have also been carried on between Rafael Point and Estevan Point, including Sidney Inlet and Hesquoit Harbor.

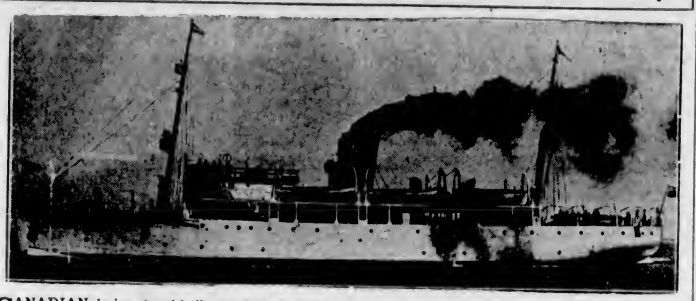

Starting at the beginning of July, the survey ship has been employed on the survey of the Strait of Fuca between Race Rocks and Bonilla Point, with headquarters at Port San Juan. The United States Hydrographic Survey during 1931 completed the United States side of the strait up to within four miles of the Vancouver Island shore. About the same time, a small party was detached from the Lillooet, in charge of W. K. Willis, Mr. Parizeau's assistant, for duty at the mouth of the Nass River, Northern British Columbia. This party is still in that area.

PENDER BUSY

The houseboat Pender, in charge of Commander J. H. Knight, has completed the hydrography of all the inner channels of Clayoquot Sound that had been coastlined and sounded last season. The Pender is now employed in the survey of Herbert Arm and Shelter Arm, Clayoquot Sound.

Since April 15, aerial photographers of the Department of National Defence, has had two planes working in co-operation with the hydrographic survey, obtaining photographs of the West Coast of Vancouver Island from Race Rocks to Cape Scott, including the Scott Islands, the east shore of the Strait of Georgia, including all inlets on that shore, as well as the coast from Cape Caution to Millbank Sound, together with all inlets and outlying islands. To date, the photographers have furnished the hydrographers with nearly 2,000 photographs. This assistance is proving of great value in the charting of the coast.

New Survey Vessel Due on Monday

CANADIAN designed and built, the Federal Government hydrographic steamer William J. Stewart will arrive here sometime Monday, according to word received from the department by H. D. Parizeau, chief hydrographer for the Pacific Coast. The William J. Stewart will be drydocked during the week under the supervision of John S. Leitch, vice-president and general manager of the Collingwood Shipyards, Limited, builders of the ship, before being turned over to the chief naval architect of the Department of Marine, Charles Duguid, who is now en route to the Coast to check up on the vessel and her fittings.

New Survey Ship Looked For Here At First of Week

William J. Stewart Nearing Port After Long Voyage From Great Lakes—Craft Is Well Equipped and Built for Service

Here to meet the new hydrographic survey ship, William J. Stewart, the chief hydrographer for the Federal Government on the Pacific Coast, H. D. Parizeau arrived in Victoria during the week from Port Renfrew on the west coast of Vancouver Island, present headquarters of the survey ship Lillooet.

The William J. Stewart is due here on Monday of next week, when Charles Duguid, chief naval architect of the Marine Department, now on his way to the Coast, will formally take over the ship from the contractor on behalf of the department. All being satisfactory, the ship will then be placed in charge of Mr. Parizeau, who will find a suitable place for berthing the new ship until such time as she is commissioned for survey work in these waters, next Spring.

In connection with the naming of the new ship, Mr. Parizeau stated that while some people considered it should have been named after some early explorer, he felt that the department could have found no more fitting a personage to have the honor than the late William J. Stewart, Canadian born, and first chief of the Dominion Hydrographic Survey. Mr. Stewart was born in Ottawa and graduated with honors from the Royal Military College, Kingston, where he was gold medalist. He joined the survey in 1882 as assistant to Captain Bolton, R.N., newly-appointed hydrographer for the Great Lakes.

FIRST COAST SURVEY

In 1891, Mr. Stewart was sent to Vancouver with a boat's crew of five men and one pulling boat from the Great Lakes to make a survey of Burrard Inlet from Point Atkinson to Port Moody. It was the first modern survey of Vancouver Harbor and the first Canadian survey made on the Coast. In 1893, Mr. Stewart was appointed in charge of the Great Lakes survey, and in 1904, when the various branches of the hydrographic survey were amalgamated, he was appointed chief hydrographer, a position which he occupied until his death in 1926.

Mr. Stewart represented the Canadian Government on the Deep Waterways Commission between the United States and Canada, when differences were adjusted on the Great Lakes from the mouth of the Pidgeon River to the 54th parallel junction with the St. Lawrence. He was also a member of the joint commission for all international disputes between the same countries, and was one of two commissioners looking after improvement of St. Lawrence River navigation. He was one of the first commissioners in connection with the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes international waterways project, and was called to Paris as an expert advisor to the Boundary Commission in connection with water boundaries of various countries.

FREQUENT VISITOR

During Mr. Stewart's tenure of office the new C. J. Bayfield was purchased, and the Lillooet, Cartier and Acadia were especially built for service. He had made many visits to the Coast in connection with the survey work being carried on, and knew more about Pacific Coast waters than anybody at Ottawa. On his last visit West in 1920, his parting words to the surveyors on the Coast were: "I will start as soon as I get back an educational campaign for newer and better survey ships." As a result of his activities, it was decided to build a new ship for the Pacific survey, and money was voted for the purpose four years ago.

The new survey ship is 228 feet long, 36 feet beam, with a mean draft of 11 feet 7 inches. When in commission her complement will be sixty-six men all told, including surveyors and crew, and will have the same number of ship's officers as the Lillooet. She will carry nine surveyors, including the officer in charge. Comparing the new ship and its equipment with the Lillooet, Mr. Parizeau stated that with the same amount of overhead, the new ship would have almost double the surveying capacity.

The William J. Stewart's equipment consists of four large and three small motor launches, two large life boats, one work boat and six dories. Steering apparatus, in addition to the ordinary magnetic compass, consists of Sperry gyro compass with five repeaters, one being in the pilot house, one on the bridge, one beside the steering gear aft, with two bearing-repeaters on the survey bridge. The equipment also includes one automatic course recorder.

SOUNDING MACHINES

Sounding machines on board include one electrically-driven Lord Kelvin sounding machine, one electrically-driven deep-sea Lucas sounding machine, a twin cylinder pony sounding machine for marked line, while next Winter the very latest type of echo sounding machine will be installed.

Contrary to all layouts on Canadian survey ships at the present time, having accommodation aft and chart rooms forward on the upper deck, the new ship is designed with quarters for the staff forward and the crew aft. The lower and main decks are for the surveyors, where their mess room and cabins are located. On the third deck is the main chart room, where there is ample space, with offices adjoining and the staff's smoking room. On the deck above the chart room forward is the wheelhouse and navigation bridge, all being closed in. Aft of the wheelhouse are the navigator's quarters and the mate's room. Above this deck is the surveying bridge covering the whole of the wheelhouse, bridge and navigators' quarters. On this deck are various surveying instruments, including large chart table. This deck is the top one of five. On this deck a mast is the mainmast is a house, on the starboard side of which is the wireless room, lockers for instruments and records being on the port side.

The wireless equipment includes a 500-watt C.W.-I.C.W. transmitter W.M. 4; a 100-watt C.W.-I.C.W. phone W. 4, with a direction finder. There are also two portable telephones to be used in small boats, shore parties or house boats at distant points.

The William J. Stewart is equipped for service in all sorts of weather on the British Columbia Coast, and is able to anchor in 100 to 125 fathom depths in the open sea, a circumstance which will save time and eliminate the necessity for returning to a harbor anchorage after the day's work is finished. Her anchors weigh one and a half tons each, with one and a half inch chain.

AORANGI MADE SMART VOYAGE

Large Motor Liner Docked Twenty-Four Hours Before Schedule Time

Flying a special flag yesterday morning, the Canadian-Australasian liner Aorangi, with Capt. W. Martin in command, docked at Rithet Piers shortly after 10:30 o'clock, twenty-four hours ahead of time. The flag was made for the occasion in honor of the Australian and New Zealand delegates who were aboard, en route to the Imperial Conference, and denoted, according to the lettering thereon, that they were bound for Ottawa.

Officers of the Aorangi reported an uneventful voyage from Sydney, the sea being smooth practically all the way. In all the liner had 183 travelers aboard, including the members of the delegations. In the first class there were 101 passengers, in the cabin class 48, and in the third class 34. A number of passengers left the ship here. For Victoria the Aorangi had slightly more than 100 tons of general cargo, and for Vancouver about 500 tons.

Among the passengers were Capt. J. F. Houdsworth, who was returning to his home in Lanarkshire after a visit to New Guinea, where his family is interested in a rubber plantation; Mr. and Mrs. M. Morgan, of Calcutta, who are proceeding on a world tour; J. A. Alexander, a member of the Melbourne Herald staff, who will represent The Herald, Melbourne, and The Sun, Sydney, at the Imperial Conference, accompanied by Mrs. Alexander; and Gordon Gilmour, of the Sydney Herald staff, who has been loaned by the proprietors of the Sydney Morning Herald to represent the Australian Press Association at the conference.

NO PILCHARDS TAKEN AS YET

Fishermen and Operators Have Not Agreed on Price Per Ton

TOFINO, July 14.—The pilchard fishing season officially opened July 5, but so far no fishing operations have actually commenced; and owing to a disagreement between the pilchard fishermen and the reduction plant operators over the price set for the fish this year, it is still uncertain when fishing will actually start. The men are being offered only $1.60 per ton and are holding out for $2 per ton. The price per ton is divided between the seven members of the crew of a pilchard seine boat. Last year the plants paid on a $2 per ton basis, whereas three years ago the fishermen were paid $4 per ton.

Pilchard plant managers and the fishermen held several meetings together in Vancouver recently, and a satisfactory settlement is expected. Owing to the very low price for pilchard oil and meat; very few reduction plants will be operating this Summer. Those that have so far announced their intention of operating are the Northern Packing Company at Ecole; McBride & Blackwell at Toquart and McBride Bay; Nelson Bros. at Ucluelet and C.P.C.; Watson's at Matilda Creek, and the Nootka Packing Company at Nootka. The Island Packing Company may also run its plant at Queens Cove, but definite decision has not yet been made. None of the Kyuquot or Quatsino Sound plants will be working.

Vancouver Shipping

VANCOUVER, July 14 (CP)—Nippon Yusen Kaisha Ms. Hiye Maru sailed at noon today for the Orient. She arrived early this morning to B. W. Greer & Son to take on eighty-five passengers here, and sailed with a total of 215 passengers, the balance having embarked at Seattle and Tacoma.

The company liner Ss. Yokohama Maru arrived inbound overnight and is discharging and loading at Terminal Dock.

Specifications for the ground work and the superstructure contracts for the elevator additions to be built by the Harbor Board will include fair wage clauses, according to S. McLay, chairman. The clause insists on payment of scale of wages approved by the Dominion fair wage officer.

The contract also requires that only bona fide Canadian citizens are to be employed, with preference given to married men and single men with dependents, with S.C.R. men used whenever suitable.

IS AUTHORITY ON ETHNOLOGY

Dr. Peter Buck, Noted Scientist, Passes Through City on Way East

Among the many distinguished arrivals on the R.M.S. Aorangi yesterday was Dr. Peter Buck, recognized as one of the foremost ethnologists of the day and outstanding authority on Polynesian peoples. Mrs. Buck is accompanying her husband from Honolulu on a visit to the East and Europe, where Dr. Buck will lecture on his work.

Born in New Zealand of Irish and Maori parentage, Dr. Buck has had a distinguished career as a medical practitioner, soldier, legislator and Cabinet minister. He abandoned his medical practice and his public career to follow his scientific research work, and in this field he has won world recognition.

WELL KNOWN

A handsome man, polished in his manner and distinguished in bearing, Dr. Buck and his charming wife enjoy a unique acquaintanceship with men and women from all parts of the world. Following years of intensive study of the ethnology and archaeology of the Maori race in New Zealand, subjects upon which he has written works recognized as standards of authority, he studied the peoples of Samoa and other South Pacific islands in habited by Polynesians.

He was offered and accepted a high position in the Bernice E. Bishop Memorial Museum at Honolulu, where he continued his research work.

At the Hawaiian capital the home of Dr. and Mrs. Buck became the meeting place for distinguished sojourners at the crossroads of the Pacific.

Dr. Buck has recently completed further volumes on his chosen subject, and these will shortly be published.

He expects to spend at least a year in Europe.

COASTAL SHIP DOCKED INBOUND LAST NIGHT FROM PORTS IN NORTH

Inbound from California ports, the Pacific Steamship Company's coastal liner Ss. Emma Alexander tied up at Rithet Piers shortly before 10 o'clock last night. After disembarking local and Mainland passengers and discharging cargo for the port, the Emma Alexander proceeded to Seattle at midnight.

Awaiting the arrival of the Emma Alexander the Pacific Steamship Company's Alaska-bound excursion Ss. Admiral Rogers docked at Rithet Piers shortly after 8 o'clock last night, and after a transfer of passengers had been made from the coastal liner, the northbound ship cleared for Ketchikan, her first port of call in Alaska, at 11 o'clock.

Bringing her usual Thursday excursion to Victoria yesterday afternoon, the Black Ball Ferries Ss. Indianapolis docked at the Belleville Street docks of Canadian Pacific Steamships at 1:30 o'clock. The Indianapolis left on her return trip to Seattle at 6 o'clock.

Seine Boats Are Now Taking Fish On Island Coast

TOFINO, July 14.—The sockeye fishing is started here, and already twenty seine boats are fishing in Tofino Inlet, and more expected as the run continues. The Clayoquot Sound Cannery is operating, and there are several independent buyers on the grounds as well, the fish bought by the latter being packed to Kildonan, Port Alberni and Vancouver canneries. The Tofino run of sockeye usually averages about 80,000 fish, and is the highest grade sockeye caught in British Columbia, hence much sought after by cannerymen. Owing to intense phosphoric conditions of the water, gill net fishermen cannot operate here, the sockeye fishing being carried on by seine boats exclusively.

Sockeye fishing also continues in Barkley Sound, commencing a month earlier than at this place, and lasting considerably longer than the local run, which usually extends six weeks. Both seine and gill net fishing is carried on in Barkley Sound.

The Fisheries protection cruiser Givenchey, Captain W. Radford, was here for a few hours last Saturday, J. F. Tait, supervisor of fisheries for the Vancouver Island district, being aboard on a visit of inspection.

SCHOOL BOARD REJOINS UNION

Trustees' Association Performing Valuable Work Is Conclusion Reached

The city school board, at its meeting on Wednesday, renewed its membership in the British Columbia School Trustees' Association, which will hold its annual convention this year at Kelowna on September 19.

On the motion of Trustee J. L. Beckwith, it was decided to again join the association. He said that never before had there been such a need for this organization as at present, when the schools of the province were facing serious financial problems.

Trustee J. M. Campbell, in seconding the motion, remarked that since he had supported the cancellation of membership, he had studied the work of the association closely, and had come to the conclusion that he had voted in the past without a full knowledge of the valuable work this association was performing.

A special meeting of St. Louis College Pathfinders will be held at Scout headquarters, Johnson Street, on Wednesday, July 20, at 7:30 p.m. All members are asked to make a point of attending the meeting.

SCOTS SCOUT BAN ON KILT

Proposed banning of the kilt and Balmoral as part of the dress of rover scouts has aroused loyal Scots to almost fever heat. Scouts of Glasgow, Scotland, are determined to ignore the attempted ban, and scouts throughout the country have resolved that there shall be no disruption of the organization. Before the Arrowe Park assembly five years ago a similar attempt was made, but it was strongly resisted. At the end of the jamboree there were several riotous scenes when rovers from abroad desired to take home with them kilts and Balmorals as souvenirs. It is said that at last year's gathering in Switzerland greater local enthusiasm was shown for Scots in their kilts, and it is thought that headquarters are fearful of the national spirit entering the movement.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOYS FROM ENGLAND WILL TOUR COUNTRY SOON

WINNIPEG, July 14.—No better "finishing school" than a visit to one of the British Dominions, is the opinion of Lord Nigel Douglas-Hamilton expressed in Winnipeg today on his way across Canada. Lord Hamilton is blazing a trail over Canadian Pacific lines for the ninth tour of English Public school boys, thirty of whom will arrive in Montreal on August 5 for a visit to the Dominion under his supervision.

Keenly interested in Western Canadian crop conditions and methods, he was an even match for the reporters who questioned him closely during his brief stop between trains.

"This is the second of these tours for our Public School boys to visit Canada," he said, "and your crop prospects would appear to make it a most favorable one."

Lads from such eminent schools as Charterhouse, Eton, Harrow, Lancing and Westminster will be among the party to cross Canada in August and September, accompanied by Lieut.-Col. J. D. Hills, assistant master at Eton, who will be assisted on the tour by W. D. Davies, Radley College, now an officer in the 60th Rifles.

The new tablemaid was receiving instructions from the wealthy society lady who had engaged her.

"At dinner, Jane," she explained, "you must remember always to serve from the left and take the plates from the right. Is that clear?"

"All right, ma'am," answered the girl. "What's the matter, superstitious or something?"

SEEDED PLAYERS ADVANCE IN B.C. TOURNAMENT

Saanich Thistles Eliminated From Connaught Cup by North Shore United

Mainlanders Sweep To 4-1 Victory in B.C. Soccer Final

Outclass Locals in All Departments of Game to Earn Right to Meet Edmonton Squad in Vancouver in Three-Game Series—Visitors Have Decided Advantage

Outclassed in every department of the game, Saanich Thistles passed out of the Connaught Cup picture last night, at the Royal Athletic Park, when they dropped a 4-1 decision to the smooth-working North Shore United eleven, strong First Division club from Vancouver, in the British Columbia final of the Canadian championship series before a large crowd. The Mainlanders will clash with Edmonton Canadian Legion in the first of a three-game series tomorrow evening, in Vancouver, for the right to meet the Saskatchewan titleholders in the Western Canada final.

The suburbanites were just a shadow of the team that eliminated Victoria City and then pushed aside the Chinese Students last Saturday. They lacked finish in front of goal, and their back division crumpled to pieces shortly after the opening whistle. Sammy Essler was the only man the local goalie could depend upon, while Ronnie Williams turned in a fine game at halfback. On the other hand, there wasn't a weak link in the Mainland machine. Their backs were strong and reliable, while their firing line swept down the field together, using the short passing game to great advantage.

North Shore kicked off, and shortly after Saanich forced a corner. Morgan crossed to the goal area, but Speller missed on a long shot. Taking up the attack, North Shore carried the ball to the local goal and Bridges took care of Reid's nice header. Morgan nearly scored on a pass from Burns, but his shot grazed the crossbar. A few minutes later, Lindsay, former goalie for New Westminster Royals, worked fast to take a puzzling shot from Burns from close range.

LOCALS SCORE FIRST

Reid got through by himself and tested Bridges with a rifle shot, while McNicholl skied over the bar after catching the rebound. Thom missed on a combination attack by driving over the bar with only the goalie to beat. Saanich drew first blood, after fourteen minutes of play, when Art Chapman took a pass from Burns and scored to the corner with a fast, low drive.

From then on North Shore pressed hard, and twenty-five minutes had gone, when Todd, diminutive inside right, got home the equaliser. Lanyon, right wing, sailed up his wing at a fast clip and crossed over beautifully. Bridges saved, but Reid was in on the ball like a flash and crashed home the tying counter. After the kick-off, Saanich pressed for several minutes, and C. Chapman made Lindsay act quite fast to take his bullet drive from outside the penalty area, while Burns missed a sure counter by heading inaccurately.

BREAKS DEADLOCK

Lanyon broke the deadlock after thirty-five minutes, when he went away by himself, tricked Sam Essler, and swept in on Bridges to score with ease. The local goalie had no chance to save. From that stage on, North Shore had complete control of the situation, and banged away at the Thistles' goal from all angles, but try as they did, they failed to add to their margin as the interval arrived.

At the start of the second half the visiting eleven went better than ever, while Saanich were still miskicking, passing poorly and shooting wild. Bridges was a busy man for the first fifteen minutes, stopping shots from all directions. Lanyon added No. 3 for North Shore after twenty-five minutes, when he shot the leather into an open goal. Bridges was at fault. He came out to take a long drive and made a complete mess of things, and Lanyon went in, took the ball away from the local goalie and scored into an unprotected net.

FINAL GOAL

North Shore played on the defence at every opportunity from then on, as the crowd howled their disapproval, but it was cup-tie soccer, a natural thing for any team with a lead to do. McNicholl put the game in the cooler by breaking away and scoring on a fine header on a combination attack ten minutes from time. From then on the game slowed up considerably, with the visitors playing strong on the defence.

D. McMillan refereed, and the teams follow:

North Shore — Lindsay; Hanna, Garrioch; McSween, Hunter, Thom; Lanyon, Reid, McNicholl, Todd and Searles.

Saanich Thistles — Bridges; Harper, Essler; R. Williams, Viggers, Speller; H. Williams, C. Chapman, Burns, A. Chapman and Morgan.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

A Literary Marvel—Joseph Conrad, whose true surname is Korzeniowski, was a native of Poland, whence he wandered to Marseilles, France, to enlist as a seaman at the age of seventeen. Until 1878, when he came to England, English was a tongue totally unknown to him. He was over twenty-one when his lips uttered the first English word.

But this Polish youth was destined to attain to so masterful a command of matchless English prose as was only rarely attained by a native English author. He published his first novel at the age of thirty-nine.

Cleveland Continues Victorious March at Expense of Yankees

Indians Wallop New York Pitchers to Take 11-3 Verdict for Ninth Win in Last Eleven Games —Pirates and Cubs Come Through

AMERICAN LEAGUE

NEW YORK, July 14.—Continuing their victorious surge through the East, which has given them nine wins in eleven games since they left home, the Cleveland Indians socked three Yankee pitchers for an 11 to 3 verdict in today's opener at the stadium.

Led by Dick Porter and Luke Sewell, each with three solid blows, the Indians pounded Pennock, Allen and Rhodes for sixteen hits in reducing the Yanks' lead over the American League to eight and a half games. It was the fifth straight victory for the tribe.

Clint Brown went the distance for the winners, keeping nine New York hits well scattered. Babe Ruth's twenty-sixth home run of the year in the first inning was the only run made off Brown until the fifth. Luke Sewell hit a four-bagger for the Indians. Four Yankee errors made things easier for Cleveland.

Senators Nose Out Browns

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The Washington Senators ran their winning streak to six games today by downing the St. Louis Browns in a twelve-inning battle, 5 to 4.

Three singles in the twelfth ended the deadlock. Rice hit first, then West and finally Bluege connected to score Rice. Harris clouted a home run in the sixth with Cronin on board.

White Sox Beat Boston

BOSTON, July 14. — Chicago's White Sox eked out a 9 to 8 victory over the Red Sox in eleven innings today after a six-run lead, accumulated in the first two innings, had been wiped out. Jolley tied the score with a home run after two were out in the ninth, but the White Sox clinched the game in the eleventh when Funk hit a Texas leaguer double and scored on two infield plays.

Freitas Wins for A's

PHILADELPHIA, July 14. — The Athletics ended their losing streak by scoring seven runs in a seventh-inning rally to overwhelm the Detroit Tigers 9 to 2 today.

Until the seventh the game was a hurling duel between Bridges and Freitas, in which the only run scored was in a Tiger rally in the third inning. But in the seventh the Athletics sent eleven men to the plate, six connecting for base hits and another drawing a pass. Freitas held the Tigers to six hits and won his fifth game in a row.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

PITTSBURGH, July 14.—Manager George Gibson told one of his youngest pitchers, Bill Swift, to go out and stop the Boston Braves today. Swift did. He gave them just four hits and hung up a 6 to 1 win, his ninth of the season.

Swift permitted only one Brave to reach third base. Horace Ford tripled and scored on Worthington's long fly in the fourth inning.

The Pirates fell upon Harry Seibold for two runs in the fourth, Vaughan's single, a triple by Gus Suhr and a single by Thevenow wresting the lead from Boston. The Pirates sewed up the game in the sixth. Vaughan's second hit was followed by a two-base muff of Barbee's fly to Leach.

Suhr was passed intentionally, but Tony Piet came through with a single that scored two runners. An infield out and Swift's Texas leaguer accounted for the other two tallies.

A circus stop by Maranville of Grace's smash over second helped materially in stopping the rally.

Seibold gave way to a pinch hitter in the eighth and Cunningham finished the game for Boston.

Phillies Hit Hard

CINCINNATI, July 14.—The Phillies rained singles upon Pitcher Carroll of the Reds in the fifth inning today, greeted Ogden, who relieved Carroll, with Lee's triple on his first pitch, and thereby built the foundation of an 11 to 6 victory.

Three innings before the Reds had rolled up six runs of their own, cheered by the return of Chick Hafey to the game. But it went for nothing when Whitney, Lee, Hurst and Davis got busy.

Giants Stop Cards

ST. LOUIS, July 14.—The Cardinals' longest winning streak for the season, four straight, was snapped today when the New York Giants came back behind young Jim Mooney to win 6 to 3.

While Mooney went along easily, holding the champs well in check until the ninth inning, when a brace of errors got him in trouble, the Giants bunched their blows off Dizzy Dean in two innings. Dean was relieved by Johnson after he had been rapped for four hits and as many runs in the seventh.

Stephenson Shines

CHICAGO, July 14.—Riggs Stephenson supplied most of the heroics today as the Cubs defeated Brooklyn, 4 to 1, and squared the series.

The veteran outfielder first saved the game for Guy Bush in the seventh when, with the score tied and two Dodgers on base, he made a circus catch of Wright's liner that was labeled a triple at least. Then, in the eighth, he doubled to left to drive in the runs that won the game.

Bush and Dazzy Vance were locked in a scoreless duel for six innings, in which each allowed but two hits.

Lew Rush and Glen Robbins, of Victoria, are the other British Columbia bikemen to make Olympic berths.

HOMER WINS TUSSLE FOR R. BAY NINE

Palmer's Drive in Eleventh Gives Team 9-8 Win Over Todds

Smashing out a long circuit drive to centrefield in the eleventh inning with one out, "Red" Palmer gave Ross Bay a 9-8 victory over Todds last night at Stevenson's Memorial Park to even the series in the Westholme Softball League play-offs. The third and final fixture will take place Monday evening at Hampton Road, at 6:30 o'clock. The winners will meet the Jokers for the title.

Four runs behind as the last of the ninth approached, Ross Bay rallied to score the needed runs to send the game into extra innings. In the tenth, Todds went out in regular fashion, but Ross Bay got two men on but both died there. Palmer put an end to the battle in the next frame with his long home run over the centrefielder's head with one away.

Score, by innings, follow:

Drive Started to Send Local Riders to Games

Over $100 Collected by Local Committee to Defray Expenses of Rush and Robbins, Bike Stars, at Olympics

The drive to send Glen Robbins and Lew Rush, two crack Victoria bike riders, to Los Angeles as a part of the Canadian Olympic bicycle team was started yesterday by Bob Peden, well-known local sportsman. Robbins and Rush were named a little over a week ago by the Dominion body as members of the squad which will carry the colors of Canada at the 1932 Olympic Games in California. More than $100 was collected, which is a good sign that the acquired amount will be secured to send the Victorians South. Donations, no matter how big or small, will be received at The Colonist and The Times business offices at any time.

Rush, who recently captured the annual Colonist ten-mile classic and one of the British Columbia championships, is reported to be in the best possible condition and should go a long way in quest of the honors in California, while Robbins is riding at his best and will, no doubt, be heard from when the time comes. Accompanying these two lads will be Frank Elliott and Leo Marchiori, star Vancouver cyclists. Only yesterday the latter was named on the squad, while Elliott was selected at the same time as Rush and Robbins.

With Rush and Robbins competing at the Olympics, it will mark the fourth Victorian seeking honors at the big world-wide meet. Many years ago Hal Beasley, track sensation of the province at that time, was chosen on Canada's team, while in 1928 Bill "Torchy" Peden, now riding in the big time six-day meets, was picked as a member of the Dominion bike team.

PRAISES RIDERS

"Rush and Robbins are riding better than Bill Peden and Jim Davies were when they were selected to go to the Olympics," stated Bob Peden yesterday when commenting on the local lads' chances of coming through against the best opposition in the amateur world.

Donations received yesterday, shortly after the drive was opened, follow:

Victoria Cycling Club	$ 25.00
M. Wightman, Junkie's Ltd.	50.00
Rithet's Consolidated	10.00
Peden Bros.	5.00

SEMIS REACHED IN MOST DIVISIONS OF NET CHAMPIONSHIPS

Six Seeded Players Remain in Men's Singles and Four Reach Semi-Final Rounds in Women's Singles—Don and Mary Campbell Beaten in Great Mixed Doubles Match

Great progress was made yesterday at the Willows courts as the third day's play in the British Columbia lawn tennis championships was completed. Threatening weather was on hand again, but no rain fell and the lengthiest schedule of the tournament was run off without a hitch. Semi-finals were reached in practically all events, and once again the seeded stars showed the way. Finalists in all events are expected to be named today.

The semi-final round was reached in the lower bracket of the men's singles, and found Mel Dranga, Seattle, and John Murlo, San Francisco, the surviving pair. In the upper bracket, Henry Prusoff, Seattle, and Don Campbell, Victoria, will meet today in their postponed quarter-final match, while C. R. Robbs, South Africa, and the fifteen-year-old Donald Budge, Oakland, will clash to decide who will enter the semis. These six players were seeded in the following order: Prusoff, Dranga, Budge, Robbs and Campbell, and some fine tennis should result from today's matches.

In the women's singles, the four seeded stars reached the semi-final brackets: Mary Campbell, No. 1; Dorothea Swartz, San Francisco, No. 2; Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, No. 3, and Theo Smith, No. 4, advancing.

HIGH-CLASS TENNIS

Yesterday's matches produced some high-class tennis. Don Campbell eliminated Dunc Williams, Vancouver, in a hard-fought three-set match, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1, in which the local player's steadiness proved the deciding factor. Campbell played strongly after a somewhat weak start, and in the last set was far ahead of his Vancouver opponent.

Don Budge defeated Marsh Gordon in straight sets to advance, while John Murlo eliminated Bud Hocking and then took Eric Leney into camp in a straight-set battle. Mel Dranga won from W. Robinson easily, and then went on to down Noel Radford in straight sets to enter the semis. Radford had previously won the right to meet Dranga with a three-set victory over W. E. Corfield, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4. Robbs had little difficulty in ousting A. C. Brand, 6-3, 6-0.

MARY CAMPBELL WINS

Mary Campbell advanced with a 6-0, 6-3 win over her sister, Jean, while Miss Smith was hard pressed to win from Helen Campbell, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. Gracyn Wheeler showed brilliant tennis to defeat Mrs. R. B. Wilson, 6-0, 6-1, while Dorothea Swartz was given a hard first set in disposing of Mildred Philipsen, 8-6, 6-0.

Some spectacular matches were produced in the men's and mixed doubles. Robbs and Hocking sent down Williams, Vancouver, and Swartz, San Francisco, in the best match of the latter division, 6-3, 10-6. The last set of this was a thriller, with the teams fighting a nip-and-tuck battle all the way.

The strong local mixed team of Mary and Don Campbell passed out of that division, in one of the best matches of the day, before Miss Smith and Williams, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5. The final set was a long-drawn-out affair, and there were many sensational volleying bouts, which kept the spectators interested throughout. The local team had previously defeated Miss Everall and Shimura.

Results follow:

Men's Singles

J. D. Campbell defeated Dunc William (Vancouver), 2-6, 7-5, 6-1.

D. Budge (Oakland) defeated D. M. Gordon, 6-1, 6-1.

J. Murlo (San Francisco) defeated R. Hocking, 6-3, 6-2.

E. Leney (Duncan) defeated I. Redmayne, 6-2, 6-2.

N. Radford defeated W. E. Corfield, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Mel Dranga (Seattle) defeated W. Robinson, 6-1, 6-1.

J. Murlo defeated E. Leney, 6-0, 6-4.

C. H. Robbs (South Africa) defeated A. C. Brand, 6-3, 6-0.

SERGT. REGAN TAKES LEAD IN GOVERNOR'S SHOOT

CANADIAN SCOTTISH MARKSMAN SHATTERS MARK ON FIRST STAGE

Regan Puts On Brilliant 104 Out of Possible 105 to Lead Field by One Lone Point—"Lottie" Collings and Two Others Score Possibles in Victoria Corporation Event

By Staff Correspondent

HEALS RANGE, July 14.—Turning in a brilliant 104 out of a possible 105, obtained with two possibles and a 34, Sergt. J. Regan, of the Canadian Scottish, Bisley prize winner, broke the record for shooting in the first stage of the Lieutenant-Governor's Match in the third day's competition of the B.C.R.A. prize meeting being held here today. The shoot was made at the 200, 500 and 600-yard ranges, and Sergt. Regan shot a 34 at the 200-yard mark, coming through with possibles on the last two ranges.

Conditions which prevailed on the range today were the best of the week, and yesterday's leaders continued their consistent performances to show the way in the various matches.

FEATURE MATCHES

The three shoots of the Lieutenant-Governor's match were the day's features, and the second stages will be shot off Saturday morning. Particularly fine marksmanship marked the match, several competitors emerging with totals over the 100 mark.

The other important match today was the Victoria Corporation competition, open to all comers, over the 300 and 800-yard ranges. The first half of the match, at 300 yards, was completed today, while the marksmen will display their wares from 800 yards tomorrow. In today's shooting in this match, Master Gunner H. "Lottie" Collings, winner of the Vancouver Corporation Match, Capt. G. E. Walls, of the Garrison, and Sergt. A. E. Ashe, of the Canadian Scottish, were 100 possibles. The full scores for the shooting today will be computed at the conclusion of the 800-yard firing tomorrow.

AIR FORCE WINS

In the team match of eight men, named before the match, competing concurrently in the Lieutenant-Governor's shoot, the Royal Canadian Air Force team, of Jericho Beach, won first place. Full results of this match will also be known tomorrow.

Canadian Scottish team representatives again came through with a win today in the P.P.C.L.I. Service Trophy Match. The team shot down five plates in 50 seconds from the 300-yard to the 200-yard range, using fourteen rounds of ammunition. The aggregation consisted of Sergt. T. W. Hall, Sergt. C. Coutts, Sergt. A. E. Ashe, Sergt. B. Drysdale and Pte. R. W. Carey.

Owing to a ten-way tie of 97's occurring in the Lieutenant-Governor's Match, a shoot-off for seven places to go into the second stage of the match on Saturday will be held tomorrow.

TIE WITH POSSIBLES

In the extra series matches shot today at the 200 and 300-yard ranges, two possibles were scored in the first shoot, while three marksmen secured possibles at 300 yards. Lieut.-Colonel R. M. Blair, of the Vancouver Seaforths, and Sergt. Regan led at the 200-yard range, while those tied at 300 yards were Master Gunner Collings, Capt. Dave Fyvie, Canadian Scottish, and Sergt. Regan. C.S.M. J. Cherry, of the Irish Fusiliers of Vancouver, was high man in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Rapid Fire Match yesterday afternoon, taking first prize money with a 48. This match was shot at 300 yards. When he first shot in this match, Cherry had an extra shot on his target, automatically disqualifying the score, necessitating his firing again. In his second attempt he made a 48 to replace Sergt. T. W. Hall, Canadian Scottish, who previously led with a 47.

ATTRACTING amateurs from all parts of the United States and Canada and from overseas as well, two important amateur open tourneys are billed this Summer at the famous Banff Springs Hotel course at Banff. The Willingdon tournament, for the cup donated by the Viceroy of India, former Governor-General of Canada, holds the stage from July 18 to 23, and the Prince of Wales tournament, for the cup donated by His Royal Highness, will be from August 15-20, inclusive. Adorned by its new $100,000 clubhouse, the sporty mile-high Banff Springs course never was in better shape than at present, and will offer a real test to visiting golfers during the two tournaments. Victory for the Sons means first place, as at present they are deadlocked with Green Mill, while a decision for the antlered tribe will put them above the .500 mark for the first time this season. Lloyd Cann will do the pitching for the Canadians, with Jack Bacon on the receiving end, while Manager Lorimer's selection for mound duty is still in the bag. Tommy Bowden will complete the battery for the Elks.

BROWN TROUT BEING MARKED AT COWICHAN

LAKE COWICHAN, July 14.—G. C. Carl, of the Fisheries Department Vancouver, B.C., is a visitor at the Riverside Inn. Mr. Carl is here to mark all the brown trout in the ponds and troughs of the Dominion hatchery before they are liberated. The hatchery at the lake is well equipped with modern ponds, and is efficiently managed by a capable staff, under the guidance of the superintendent, J. H. Castley.

Arthur Pins Nenoff In Sensational Bout

Local Grappler Defeats Bulgarian Champ in Sixth Round of Fast Bout—"Rocky" Brooks Wins Over Bobby Bylund—Lowe Beats Griffin

With body slams in the fifth and sixth rounds of the main event scheduled to go to a finish, Ernie Arthur, Victoria, last night defeated Steve Nenoff, Bulgaria, before one of the largest crowds ever to witness a wrestling exhibition in the Tillicum Gymnasium. In a fast semi-wind-up, "Rocky" Brooks, of Victoria, won a well-earned victory against the more experienced Bobby Bylund, Minneapolis, with a fall in the last round of their five-round bout. The excellent card wound up with a local four-round preliminary between Bruce Lowe and "Fat" Griffin, the latter winning with a body press in the last round.

WILLING TO MIX

Both grapplers showed willingness to mix, and the capacity audience showed its approval of this fact. During the first round Arthur held Nenoff in a surfboard hold for two and a half minutes, the Bulgarian finally managing to break it.

The first fall went to Nenoff in the third round, with an airplane spin and body slam. After this round the bout got rougher, with both men continually using their fists despite the warnings of Referee Fred Richardson.

ARTHUR WINS

The next fall came when Arthur pinned his opponent with a body slam in the fifth, and he was awarded the bout with the fall he obtained in the next round with another slam.

The semi-wind-up was fast throughout, and Brooks, wrestling at 171 pounds, found the going pretty rough against his more experienced opponent. As the match went, however, it became more even. Brooks won the bout with the only fall, obtained with a body press in the fifth. Bylund weighed 162 pounds.

McKinnon Cup Team Match Captured by English Marksmen

Mother Country Squad Puts On 1,097 to Defeat Canada by Seven Points—Q.M.S. Evans Enters Second Stage of King's Prize Shoot

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 14 (CP).—Canada barely missed achieving an historic double triumph in the great Empire meeting of the National Rifle Association this afternoon, as a team of twelve English marksmen successfully defended the McKinnon Challenge Cup.

England, who took the cup from Canada last year, finished the long range marksmanship test with an aggregate of 1,097 points. Canada totaled 1,090, the same as Scotland. Wales and India finished lower down.

Canada, on Tuesday, had captured the Kolapore Challenge Trophy, so that she splits even with England in the two biggest team events for service rifles in the Empire.

The team scores in the thirty-eighth renewal of the McKinnon Cup, which has been captured on seven occasions by Canada, were: England, 1,097; Canada, 1,090; Scotland, 1,090; Ireland, 1,077; India, 1,027; Wales, 1,023.

Sergeant F. V. Shepherd, of Ottawa, with a total of 69 out of a possible 70, won the Northland prize of $100 in connection with the Prince of Wales match at 300 and 600 yards.

With the same total, the Prince of Wales prize itself, one of the most coveted at Bisley, and having a cash value of $500, was won by Sergt. T. W. Henderson, of the Scottish Borderers. Sergeant Shepherd was not eligible for the Prince of Wales Prize because he did not have one of the N.R.A.'s bronze badges.

FOUR MAKE POSSIBLES

Four Englishmen recorded scores of 50, highest possible, in The Daily Telegraph shoot, and will shoot off for the silver trophy on Saturday.

Canada will have sixteen men in the shoot-off for remaining places in the King's Prize second stage tomorrow, fourteen teamsmen, Lieut. Lucas, who is attached to the team, and Colonel A. G. Styles, of Saskatoon, team commandant. They follow:

Captain J. H. Houlden, Sherbrooke, 100; Lieut. G. E. Matchett, Hamilton, 100; Lieut. Lucas, Toronto, 99; Lieut. R. A. Sweet, Hamilton, 99; Sergt. Alec Parnell, Verdun, Que., 98; C.S.M. Rusk, Ottawa, 98; Sergt. F. V. Shepherd, Ottawa, 98; Lieut. J. T. Downey, Saint John, 97; A. E. Evans, of Esquimalt, B.C., 97; Corporal Herring, Ottawa, 97, and Sergt. H. F. Parker, Saint John, 97. With scores of 96 Saturday, T. A. Jensen, of Innisfail, Alta., Capt. Kerr, of Toronto, and Lieut. G. A. Molecey, of Winnipeg, are virtually certain to enter the second stage tomorrow.

The Canadians eliminated outright were Q.M.S. Burton, of Calgary, and C.M.S. Emslie, of Toronto, with 95's; the veteran Major Fred Richardson, of Victoria, with 94, and Lieut. J. N. Dow, of Saint John, with 91.

Lieut. Desmond Burke scored a total of 49 out of a possible 50 to lead the Canadians in The Daily Telegraph shoot at 300 yards. A. E. Evans, of Esquimalt, B.C., was right behind Burke in The Telegraph with a 48.

The Canadian scoring in The Daily Telegraph, possible 50, and the Prince of Wales and Northland shoots, possible 35 each distance, was as follows:

With Delegation From Australia

With the Australian delegation to the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa is Sir Francis Boys, head of the farmers' association, who has been in England. He will join his compatriots in Ottawa.

It will interest some of the comrades of the late Lieut. Herbert J. Boys, who went overseas with the "Bull Moose" battalion from Port Arthur and who subsequently died of wounds at No. 3 Canadian Hospital, Boulogne, to know that he is a brother. Their parents were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thomson Boys, of "The Dene," Coldburn, New South Wales. Lieut. Boys married Ethel May, second daughter of the late R. B. Stocks Slip to Lower Ground at New York Mart

NEW YORK, July 14.—After a buying flurry in the first thirty minutes, stocks made a dignified withdrawal to lower ground, today.

Obviously, the market was unable to move counter to reactions in wheat, cotton and livestock, the commodities whose advance had stimulated them on Wednesday.

Net losses averaged small. Except for a drop of 5 points in Auburn and of about 1 point each in American Telephone, United States Steel preferred, American Can, Coca Cola and Allied Chemical, the setback was of minor proportions, on the basis of net changes, although many favorites had been a point higher during the early rise. Transactions again approximated the million-share mark, actual turnover being 999,205.

Although Wall Street was doubtless a little disappointed that stocks were unable to carry through another advance, brokers thought the list had done reasonably well in view of the absence of stimulating news. The market's hopes have recently been based mostly on the performance of leading raw materials, but it is being pointed out that after three years of deflation it can hardly be expected that commodities will make an abrupt about-face, and some quarters prefer to wait awhile before deciding that a real turn has come. It appears, nevertheless, that a better undertone in sentiment is developing.

Bonds continued to advance, although considerable irregularity was apparent in the foreign government group and in some of the utility securities, which reacted on new financing projects.

Transactions fell below the $10,000,000 mark for the first time this week, the total being $9,863,000, par value.

Losses in fractions to more than a point developed in the American Telephone group on heavy turnover. Brooklyn, Union Gas 5's, Consolidated Gas issues and New York City Tractions. These losses were offset by gains of 1 to 3 points in a fair number of utility bonds.

PRECIOUS METAL GROUP ADVANCES

Activity Shows Marked Increase at Vancouver—Reno Gold in Heavy Demand

VANCOUVER, July 14 (CP).—Acting in sympathy with Eastern markets, where substantial gains were made, active issues firmed upwards in the heaviest trading session of the month on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today. Activity for the most part was in the precious metal groups, but the few oils issues that made an appearance followed the general trend closing at firm quotations.

Reno Gold was the leader in point of activity with a turnover of 5,000 shares. After selling up to 41, the issue closed unchanged at 39. Premier, another active trader, halved a two-cent gain at 48, up 1. Pend Oreille at 48 gained 4, while Pioneer, selling as high at 3.75, was up 5 at 3.65 at the close.

Crow's Nest, in the oils division, had a turnover of 16,000 shares. After a strong opening at 3 the stock eased off to 2 1-2 at the close, unchanged from yesterday's quotation. McLeod, at 25, was up 5 on the day's trading.

Lorne Gold, the only issue to go contrary to the general trend, eased 1-4 to close at 7 1-2.

Total sales volume for the day was 50,500 shares.

WHEAT VALUES DROP SLIGHTLY

Weakness at Outside Markets Causes Dip at Winnipeg Exchange

WINNIPEG, July 14 (CP).—Wheat displayed a firm tone throughout today's session on the Grain Exchange, but closed fractionally lower as the result of weakness at Chicago and Liverpool and the lack of any export.

July eased 5-8 to 52 3-8; October was down 1-8 at 55 7-8, and December dropped 1-4 to close at 57 1-8.

With the opening unchanged, the first few minutes saw a hoist in prices of 1-4 cent, but the decline in southern markets had a tendency to curb bullish enthusiasm, and near the close prices settled at low points in sympathy with a sharp dip at Chicago.

Rain fell in Central and Southern Saskatchewan and in parts of Alberta, but weather conditions were not a factor in the market here.

Cash wheat and coarse grains in dull trading were without interest.

ADJUSTED FOR LONG-TIME TREND AND SEASONAL VARIATIONS

COPYRIGHT 1930, McCONNELL & FERGUSSON LIMITED - RESEARCH DEPARTMENT

Business in Canada, as at June 1, registered 26 per cent below normal, as compared with 24.1 per cent below normal the month previous and 15.7 per cent below normal at June 1, 1931. This is the lowest point to which the index has descended.

Failure to make the usual seasonal advances accounted principally for the recession. Each factor lost ground: Revenue freight, off fractionally; construction contract awards lost 4.3 points; bank debits off 2.4 points and electric energy down 1.6.

Conditions in the United States continue on a lower level.

The following table shows the four component factors and the combined weighted index after the usual statistical adjustments.

	June 1, 1932	May 1, 1932	June 1, 1931
Carloadings of revenue freight	71.2	72.0	80.7
Construction contract awards	70.1	74.4	87.2
Bank debits	82.1	84.5	91.1
Electric power production	79.1	80.7	83.3
Combined weighted index	74.0	75.9	84.3

Increase in Prices Reflects New Spirit At Eastern Markets

MONTREAL, July 14.—The Montreal stock market assumed a bullish tone from the opening today in consequence of the announced agreement between Canada and the United States, on the St. Lawrence deep waterways system. Price advances from fractions to over a point were general, while in one case the gain was as high as 16 points.

Canada Cement preferred had the day's record gain of 76 points, selling at 36. The common shares were up 2 points at 5 1-4.

Dominion Glass was another issue to take a spectacular rise, selling at 45, up 3.

The leaders softened slightly at the close, following a setback in the late trade on Wall Street. Montreal Power sold up to 32 during the day, but closed at 31 3-4, up 3-4. Consolidated Smelters lost 1 1-4 at 54 3-4.

Southern Canada Power rose 4 1-2 points to 75 1-2.

Bank of Montreal reached a new high at 198, up 1 1-2.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, July 14 (CP).—Demonstrating it has the ability to ignore adverse market conditions in New York when anything in the nature of constructive news appears on the Canadian financial horizon, the Toronto Stock Exchange emulated "boom day" performances today, and the close saw gains ranging to more than 15 points.

Since the Independence Day holiday last week, Canadian stocks have, to a great extent, opposed any downward drift on Wall Street, due in the main to optimism that better intra-Empire trade will be born of the Imperial Conference. This, coupled with overnight news that Canada and the United States had agreed on a draft of the St. Lawrence seaway proposition, bulled prices all down the local list.

Building material and construction company shares formed the spearhead of the board advance.

In Canada Cement, with 130 shares traded, the preferred spurted 15 1-2 points to close at 36 1-2. The common jumped 1 5-8 points to 5.

Canadian Dredge & Dock, despite the fact directors took no action on the common dividend Wednesday, forged upward to a peak of 14 1-8, reacting slightly to close at 13 1-4, up 2 1-2. Building Products, Steel of Canada, common and preferred, and Dominion Bridge mirrored the day's waterways developments, the latter working up to a new high for the year of 14 1-2.

Power Corporation swelled almost 2 points to a new 1932 peak of 10.

Prospects of a heavy movement of grain from the West this year were again responsible for the resumption of upward tendencies in the grain group, where Massey-Harris was the feature when a fractional advance placed the stock at a new high for the year of 4 3-8. It eased slightly to close at 4 1-4, up 1-4.

TORONTO MINING MARKET

TORONTO, July 14.—Prices continued firm on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange today with gains dominating the movement. Leaders in the gold section moved within a restricted trading circle.

With the hope action of the Imperial Conference may better the position of copper producers by creating a larger demand for red metal within the Empire, copper issues have been steadily moving to higher levels recently. Today Noranda moved up 15c to $16; International Nickel gained 20c to $5.90, and Hudson Bay rose 4c to $1.80; the Lindsley group again moved to higher levels with Falconbridge up 25c to 80c. Sudbury Basin gained 6 points to 310, and Ventures rose 5 points to 45c.

Dome at $11.15 and B.C. Pioneer at $3.60, each recovered 5c; Mining Corporation gained 10c to $1.25; McIntyre advanced 5s to $17.75, and Wright-Hargreaves 5 points to $2.80. Lakeshore dipped 30c to $28.50.

FANCIFUL FABLES

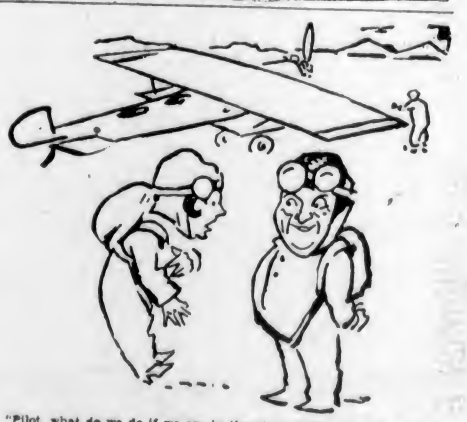

THE DOT CARTOONIST, BY GEORGE BELL

Mr. Mouse went a little too far in his adventures and was trapped. He wasn't caught in a regular trap, either. The snare that got him was an ordinary . . . (Kindly draw straight lines between the numbers.)

"Pilot, what do we do if we are in the air and the engine fails?"
"Open parachutes and drop."
"Suppose the parachute fails?"
"Flap your arms and say 'I am a dicky bird.'"

"GAS" INQUIRY IS CONTINUED

Automobile Club Directors Meet Cabinet—City Negotiations Proceeding

Consternation was expressed by members of the Provincial Cabinet over the statement of the Federal Government that control of gasoline prices was a Provincial matter when members of the Victoria branch of the Automobile Club of British Columbia waited upon the Executive Council yesterday afternoon.

Officials of the Government reiterated that it was a matter of trade and commerce over which the Province could exercise no jurisdiction, according to the British North America Act.

R. R. Webb, secretary of the Automobile Club, was spokesman for the delegation and he was informed that it was true that the Provincial Government was vested with the power to deal with gasoline price problems but that no legislation existed at present with which the Government could act. But the Federal Government did have the legislation with which to take action and the ministers said they were surprised that the matter should be referred back to the Province, Mr. Webb stated.

CITY NEGOTIATIONS

While Automobile Club officials sought redress through Government channels, the industrial committee of the City Council was still busy negotiating for an independent supply of gasoline so as to provide motorists with thirty-cent fuel and retailers with a five-cent margin of profit.

Alderman W. D. Todd said negotiations were approaching a stage of finality and that it would not be long before Victoria would be supplied with gasoline direct from Seattle.

DIRECTORS' MEETING

The directors of the Automobile Club, prior to meeting members of the Provincial Cabinet, convened yesterday morning to discuss the question.

J. H. Beatty, M.P.P., president of the club, said that it was necessary to fight what appeared to be "an unholy combine" in the matter of gasoline trade. He had been informed, he said, that gasoline was shipped from Vancouver to Calgary and sold there cheaper than on the Coast.

In the discussion of the whole situation and the possibility of combating the present rise in price, it was set out that the "gas" companies were suffering from the tremendous investments which they had in the cities. They owned valuable corners and maintained a very large number of stations, which made for loss. The information obtained indicated that independent "gas" could be brought in at a price to compete against the companies.

It was decided, however, to make an appeal to the Provincial Government in the matter of attempting to get redress as a first resort.

DEFINITE MANDATE GIVEN DELEGATION BOUND FOR OTTAWA

HISTORIC OCCASION

"The arrival in Canada of the Australian and New Zealand delegations to attend an Imperial Conference to be held in Canada is an historic occasion," said Mr. Bruce. "Never previously has such a conference been held but of Britain and, that one of the great Dominions should be the location of the present conference is another landmark in the constitutional evolution of the British Empire.

"At the conference we will have two objectives. One is to endeavor to promote an increased volume of inter-Imperial trade. By this means each part of the Empire will be assisting other parts in regaining prosperity, in putting their people back to work, and in lifting the depression which at the present moment hampers all of us.

"That it will be possible to achieve much by mutual good will and cooperative efforts cannot be doubted. A good augury of success is the fact that Canada, Australia and New Zealand have been able to enter into trade treaties which have been mutually beneficial.

"These treaties are between countries which are all agricultural nations with, in a great measure, similar production. How much easier should it be to arrive at a basis for reciprocal benefits where, as in the case when the whole Empire is brought into the picture, the production is in great measure complementary.

INSPIRE WORLD

"In addition to what we can achieve of benefit to peoples inside the British Empire, we trust we may, by our example, give an inspiration to the world. The present financial and economic crisis we are all passing through is affecting all countries, and only by international cooperation can it be overcome.

"The people not only of the Empire but of the world are looking hopefully to the Ottawa conference for inspiration—a lead out of our present difficulties. It is unthinkable that it should fail. May our statesmanship prove equal to the task that faces it. May the British race give to the world once more, as it so often has in the past, leadership in a time of crisis.

"My hope is that the Ottawa conference may be a triumphant success, and that, inspired by the spirit of co-operation and mutual helpfulness that will emanate from it, the nations of the world will meet in conference and find a way out of the sea of troubles that encompasses all peoples at the present time.

"Some thirty years ago Joseph Chamberlain fought a great fight to bring about Imperial preference, but was defeated. After his defeat, and up to the war, no progress was made. After the war, at the 1923 and 1926 conferences, strenuous efforts were made to achieve something, but little resulted. The reasons for so little having been achieved in this thirty years, were:

"(1) A general prosperity which prevented a realization of the necessity for action;

"(2) The adherence of Great Britain to her traditional policy of free trade; and

"(3) Since the war the preoccupation of many of the Dominions with constitutional questions to the exclusion of economic ones.

POSITION ALTERED

"Now the whole position is altered. The constitutional question and that of the status of the Dominions have been solved to the satisfaction of all parts of the Empire, with one greatly to be deplored exception—Prosperity has left us, and stark necessity demands action.

"Most important of all, Britain has departed from her traditional fiscal policy. Her people have awakened to the realization of the necessity for Empire economic cooperation. A Government has been returned to power in Britain, not merely with a mandate, but with an explicit instruction to go about closer Imperial trade relations.

"The basis of success at Ottawa must be a realization that the prosperity of Britain is vital to the rest of the Empire, and that the prosperity of the Empire is vital to Britain. The history of the past and the considerations of the future show how vital this is.

"Taking the case of Great Britain and Australia—in the past for some years, we were the second best customer that Britain had. That was due to the prosperity, the national income, and the spending power of Australia. Today we have sunk to the position of being only the eighth best customer of Britain. This is due to the adverse times we are passing through, the reduction of our national income, and of the spending power of our people. Our value as a customer to Britain can be restored only by a return of prosperity to Australia.

COMMON INTERESTS

"Britain's major interest, so far as Australia is concerned is, therefore, again to see us prosperous. That is also the desire of every Australian. Britain and Australia have a common interest and it is to restore Australia's prosperity.

"The Empire is vitally concerned in the prosperity of Britain. She is by far the most valuable customer of the Dominions, and it is to Britain that the Empire has to look to absorb the increasing production that we hope to see in the future."

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce, the Australian delegation included: Hon. S. M. Gullett, Minister of Trade and Customs, and Mrs. Gullett; Professor and Mrs. A. E. V. Richardson and Miss Y. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Murphy, L. E. Stephens, C. B. Carter, A. G. Moore, Mrs. F. M. Grant, F. L. Tout, H. W. Osborne, M. B. Duffy, Hon. W. C. and Mrs. Angliss, Miss E. Angliss, Sir Norman Kater, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Riddle, Professor L. G. Melville, E. B. Richardson, Professor E. G. Shann, J. B. Mills, Hon. J. and Mrs. Hume-Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Vicars, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Alexander, G. L. Gilmour, F. C. T. Lord, C. W. R. Powell and R. N. Carrington.

Want Assurance Before Accepting

BERLIN, July 14 (AP).—The German Foreign Office announced today it had received an invitation to participate in the Franco-British confidence pact.

The semi-official Diplomatische Korrespondenz said:

"Before joining the pact we must receive assurances that its partly unclear aims can in nowise be stretched to include the formation of a united front either against the United States or Soviet Russia or other powers, and that from it no elimination or renunciation of Germany's legal claims, such as were sponsored by us at Lausanne, will result."

PARIS, July 14 (AP).—Parisians observed the national French holiday today by dancing throughout the night in the public squares. President Lebrun, with Minister of War Joseph Paul-Boncour at his side, reviewed the troops at the Invalides in the presence of great crowds.

FAMOUS STABLE WILL BE SOLD

E. F. Seagram to Dispose of Horses at Auction Following Races Being Held Tomorrow

TORONTO, July 14 (CP).—The famed yellow and black silks of the Edward F. Seagram Stable, which have flashed in front in practically all of the major turf races in Canada during recent years, are soon to be missing from the racing ovals.

When Kenilworth Park in Windsor closes its gates on Saturday, it will bring to an end, for the present, at least, the racing of thoroughbreds of the popular Waterloo barn. The entire Seagram Stable, which now numbers sixteen horses, will be put on the auction block.

Included in the list of Waterloo-owned thoroughbreds are such well-known handicap performers as Solace, Korasan and Dark Mission. Others in the group include a fleet band of Canadian-breds, listed among whom are King O'Connor, second to Queensway in the 1932 King's Plate; Young Kitty, winner of the coveted Canadian turf classic in 1928, and Shady Well.

NEW WESTMINSTER, July 14.—Stanley Montgomery, forty, lumber mill operator, was instantly killed today when struck by a tree on Snake Hill, Burquitlam.

In company with other men, Montgomery was "snaking" a donkey engine up the hill. The strain of a cable attached to a cedar tree was too great. The tree snapped, pinning Montgomery underneath it when it fell.

SCENES IN PARIS SEEN AT EMPIRE

"While Paris Sleeps" Coming to Local Theatre Today for Showing Here

"While Paris Sleeps," Fox Films action-thriller coming to the Empire Theatre today, is said to be a veritable trip through the unknown side and by-streets of Paris. Allan Dwan, Fox Films director, and Basil Woon, noted scenarist and authority on the Paris that is not found in the guide books, have made such a journey possible in seventy-five minutes for all who see the film.

Among the better known places shown are the Champs Elysees, Arche Triomphe, Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Eiffel Tower, and many revealing scenes of night life in Montmartre.

Victor McLaglen is featured in a role which presents him as a devoted father willing to sacrifice everything for his daughter's safety and happiness.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Capitol—Barbara Stanwick in "So Big."
Columbia—"After Tomorrow," starring Charles Farrell.
Dominion—Greta Garbo in "As You Desire Me."
Empire—"While Paris Sleeps," featuring Victor MacLaglen.
Playhouse—Fannie Brice in "Be Yourself."
Romano—"Eyes of the World," starring Una Merkel.

Crystal Garden — Swimming and Dancing.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Charles Farrell illustrates a method of curing a sentimental mother in "After Tomorrow," as amusing as it is unique. He finds her a suitor, and promotes the courtship. Marian Nixon is co-featured opposite Ferrell in this realistic Fox picturization of young love beset with the obstacle of parental objection to their marriage. "After Tomorrow" was directed by Frank Borzage, and will remain at the Columbia Theatre two more days.

CAPITOL THEATRE Barbara Stanwyck at her finest—that's the first summary of "So Big," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre, that comes to mind. But it's not a complete summary. It is not fair to leave out the other members of the cast—George Brent, Bette Davis, Dorothy Peterson, Alan Hale and the rest of a sterling array of players. And adorable little Dickie Moore. In "So Big," Warner Bros. have presented a screen version of Edna Ferber's greatest novel, and it is a version of which they and Miss Ferber and all concerned with the production may well be proud.

DOMINION THEATRE A cosmopolitan cast appears with Greta Garbo in her latest starring vehicle, "As You Desire Me," now at the Dominion Theatre. Miss Garbo, it hardly need be said, comes from Sweden. Erich von Stroheim and Albert Conti hail from Austria. Owen Moore is an Irishman. Rafaela Ottiano and William Ricciardi are from Italy. Roland Varno was born in Holland. Warburton Gamble is from England and Melvyn Douglas and Hedda Hopper are Americans. Moreover, George Fitzmaurice, the director, was born in Paris!

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE "Be Yourself," now at the Playhouse Theatre, is a story of the New York night clubs and the prize ring, and was supervised by John W. Considine, executive production head at the United Artists studios. Others in the cast of principals are Harry Green, Gertrude Astor, Budd Fine and fourteen-year-old Jimmy Tolson, who makes his screen debut in "Be Yourself."

ROMANO THEATRE Henry King has directed more big pictures on location than any other director in motion pictures—that he went to Italy to make "Romola," to the South to make "Tol'able David," to Nevada to film "The Winning of Barbara Worth," to Tampa to screen "Hell Harbor," and lately to Santa Ynez Canyon to make "Eyes of the World," his current Inspiration-United Artists all-dialogue picture now playing at the Romano Theatre.

15,000,000 SHELLFISH DIE

That about 15,000,000 toheroas, a species of shellfish, had died recently and millions more were starving on the Ninety-Mile Beach of New Zealand, has been reported by A. W. B. Powell, conchologist of the Auckland War Memorial Museum, who visited the beach as a member of a research party from the museum. Advancing a theory to account for the heavy mortality, Powell said that in the Summer months, the offshore wind kept the plankton, on which the toheroas feed, away from the beach. The death rate was particularly severe among the adult toheroas. "There is a possibility that with such masses of decaying shellfish, the pollution may be such as to make it dangerous to eat the toheroas under present conditions," he concluded.

Envoy Greeted in Paris

EN route to Dublin, Irish Free State, to represent the Vatican at the Eucharistic Congress, Cardinal Lauri, papal legate, is shown as he was greeted in the French capital by Cardinal Verdier (left), Archbishop of Paris. Cardinal Lauri officiated at the opening of the great religious festival to which prelates journeyed from all parts of the world.

Temple to Offer Spectacular Show

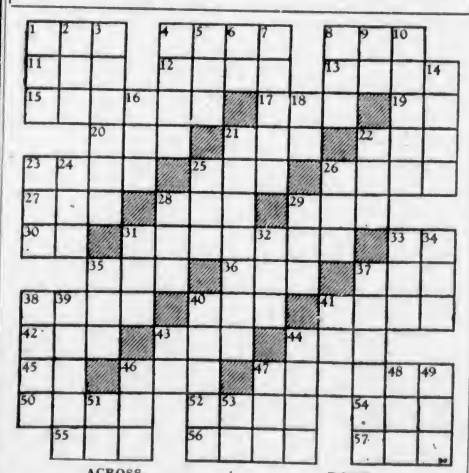

From Boadicea to Shanghai seems a long stretch in history, but this will be covered in the spectacular production, "The Fires of Freedom," which will be produced at the Willows, August 4, 5 and 6, under the auspices of the Victoria City Temple.

The story of the age-long struggle for liberty will be dramatically shown in this production. Dancing, tableaux and gigantic fireworks pictures will form a continuous story of man's struggle for freedom from the days of Imperial Rome to the present time.

This type of entertainment is something new in Victoria, but has been enthusiastically received in all the Pacific Coast cities, including San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Tacoma and Seattle.

The Victoria City Temple choir will take charge of the choral work, and band music will be provided by the 16th Canadian Scottish Band.

What Today Means

"CANCER"

If July 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9:34 p.m., from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m., and from 9:40 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 10:05 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8:45 p.m.

"Bobby, I gave your teddy bear to a poor little boy who had no father."
"Why didn't you give him father?"—Berlingske Tidende, Copenhagen.

Fate will be in a meddlesome mood on July 15, and will rob you of your laurels at the moment of success. For ordinary business, conditions are not favorable. Less than the usual hazards for most speculative ventures. Unexpected travel, and important news through letters.

The child born on this July 15 will be far from a brilliant student and will not be outwardly affectionate. When moved it will be defiant to its own hurt, and it will hang stubbornly on to its own ideas. A good education would not be wasted upon it, as it will have a good mind, and will be ambitious enough to make good use of any specialized training.

Born on July 15, you have a very restful nature, and have so much kindliness and tact that you are seldom at actual "outs" with anybody. You may be accused of having kissed the blarney stone, but there are few people who dislike your flattering tongue.

If you be a woman, you need a man's protection and an object of worship and devotion. You would not perish if hoisted by youd own petard, but you were not meant to play any role outside the home. If thrown into the competitive business world, your pliable and sensitive nature will become spoiled and somewhat hardened. It would be a pity for you to become married to a job instead of a man. You possess all the graceful charms essential to a charming hostess or ideal homemaker.

You could never make idleness seem the happy life, and will always have active interests. No matter what your physical attractions may be you have too much personality to ever be thought plain—your beauty will be more than skin deep. You have a natural facility for languages, and a real love for good music. You do not scoff at pungent nonsense, and are not afraid to throw aside your dignity. Children love you, and your life will be enriched by your friendships.

The British Herbarium, consisting of 20,000 pressed plants collected by Dr. J. T. Irwen, Boswell, a noted botanist, has been presented to South Kensington Natural History Museum, in England.
